City Reveals Plans For New City Hall

Old Telephone Building Considered As New Home

Mayor Abe Silverman and Harry Naugel, chairman of the Parking Lot Committee, Friday night outlined a plan whereby the old Bell Telephone building at Third and Lamine might be obtained for use as a City Hall.

Under the same plane, the present City Hall would be razed and an off-street parking lot would be built on the City Hall site.

The plan was outlined and discussed at a meeting in the Council Chambers in City Hall. Present were Mayor Silverman and City Attorney John C. McCloskey; Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Deputy Jack Couts; Councilmen Earl Paxton; R. N. Snavely, E. Glenn Lewis, C. R. Roberts, Woodrow Garrison, Jack Cunningham and Pat Clark; S. J. Timborious, William Hurlbut, Mrs. David Alexander, Paul Hedderich, Mrs. Forrest Rowe and Johnny O'Brien of the Sedalia Planning and Zoning Commission; Naugel and Phil McLaughlin of the Parking Lot Committee; Judges C. Berry Elliott, C. M. Purchase and E. L. Birdsong of the County Court; Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin; and George Evans.

Opening the meeting Mayor Silverman gave some background on previous plans to obtain the telephone building for use as a City Hall, and a plan to obtain a new City Hall through private donations. He said the latter plan had been suspended due to a resessionary condition in the City.

The mayor read a letter from the Sedalia building inspector, who stated that in his opinion the cost of repairing and remodeling the present City Hall building, to the extent that it would be suitable for use for 20 or 30 years, would not be justified.

The Mayor pointed out that in 1958, the telephone system had offered to sell the building to the City for $85,000, and the City had offered $60,000, which was turned down.

Naugel then pointed out that the parking lot committee had been considering two or three sites for a new parking lot in the downtown area. He stated the commtitee had arrived at the conclusion that the committee could buy the phone building, then give it to the City in return for the old City Hall, and build a parking lot on the City Hall site, right in the area in which it is needed.

Naugel stated the committee could pay the $60,000 for the phone building out of surplus funds from parking meters, with the transaction to be underwritten by George Evans. Evans later stated

Ghana Seeks A New Rule For Congo

Would Disarm All Congolese Troops, Free Prisoners

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Kwame Nkrumay of Ghana proposed Saturday that a new all-African U. N. command take over the Congo, disarm all Congolese troops, free political prisoners and convene Parliament, while all foreign diplomats leave the country.

He made the proposal in a cable to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Nkrumah had Hammarskjold circulate the message to the Security Council, which is taking a weekend recess in its Congo debate, and said he would like to come to New York to give his views.

Hammarskjold's advisory committee on the Congo decided to publish an interim report from the U. N. Conciliation Commission in that country recommending that a coalition and federal setup be established on the basis of the present government headed by President Joseph Kasavubu's premier, Joseph Ileo.

Hammarskjold announced earlier that Malaya had agreed to send 800 more troops to the U. N. force in the Congo, thinned lately by withdrawals.

Nkrumah's government recognizes Communist-backed Antoine Gizenga's regime in Stanleyville as the Congo's legal government instead of Ileo's regime in Leopoldville.

But in his message, Nkrumah said the present situation is so serious the Security Council must abandon its previous concept of noninterference in the internal affairs of the Congo.

He also said the new approach must involve first a military and then a political phase, that the initiative must come from African countries with Asian military force support and "all initiative and aid from the big or NATO powers should cease."

2 Of Saturday's Wreck Victims Still Critical

Two victims of an accident Saturday, Feb. 10, are still on the critical list at Bothwell Hospital and three have been released from the hospital. The sixth, Miss Gail Harris, is off the critical list and may be dismissed in the next few days.

Mrs. Anne Brown, 47, driver of one of the cars in the collision in front of Jerry Brown's service station on South Highway 65, was reported still on the critical list by Bothwell Hospital. Her physician could not be contacted Friday night for a detailed report, but the hospital said she was "doing well."

Mrs. Lola Luckey, 50, is also on the critical list, according to Dr. D. R. Edwards, although her condition has improved She is past the state of shock. She will undergo orthopedic surgery Wednesday. Dr. Gottsch of Kansas City will perform the surgery. Visitors are still limited to the family.

Miss Harris' condition was described as "very good' by Dr. Thomas C. Hopkins. "She is sitting up in bed and is cheerful," he said. However, the number of visitors at one time is still limited.

The three who haye been dismissed from the hospital are Juan Loy Smith, 23, Green Ridge, driver of one of the vehicles; James W. (Jerry) Brown, 54, and Lloyd Luckey, 61. The latter two were passengers in the car driven by Mrs. Brown.

WHERE THREE DIED — This is the accident where the lives of thre teenagers were snuffed out Friday night on the bridge at Muddy Creek just west of Sedalia. The car struck the bridge with the left front fender and the front end of the car was torn away and fell over the bridge railing. Driver of the car, Clinton Murphy, was thrown through the windshield, over the railing and about 35 feet down the embankment. The bodies of Wayne E. Moore and Margaret Elwell are visible in this picture. Highway Patrolman Pete Stohr is visible at the upper right. He is looking at the body of Murphy, found beyond the railing. When the car struck the bridge railing the front seat was forced upon the rear seat of the 1957 Ford.

3 Teenagers Killed In Hiway 50 Crash

Three teenagers were killed and a fourth was critically injured when the car in which they were riding struck the concrete bridge railing at Muddy Creek, two miles west of Sedalia on Highway 50, about 11:10 Friday night.

The dead were identified as Wayne Eugene Moore, 19, son of Everett Moore, Holden; Clinton C. Murphy, 19, Whiteman AFB, son of M-Sgt. and Mrs. O. F. Murphey, Whiteman; and Margaret Elwell, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Elwell, Warrensburg.

Hospitalized and in critical condition is Ruby Wilson, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilson, Warrensburg. Miss Wilson suffered a fracture of the left leg and a head laceration and possible internal injuries. She was taken to Bothwell Hospital.

The 1957 Ford was headed west during a hard rainstorm and the Highway Patrol said the car was evidently traveling at a high rate of speed when the driver apparently lost control.

Driver of the car, Murphey, was apparently thrown through the windshield, over the bridge railing about 35 feet down the embankment. Moore, who was riding in the back seat near the right door, was found partially outside of the car with a portion of the body on the pavement.

The right side of the car's front seat was forced back to the left side of the car. Miss Elwell was riding in the front seat next to the driver.

Miss Wilson was riding in the rear seat, according to Pete Stohr, Highway Patrolman, making the investigation. Stohr said she was still in the car when he arrived on the scene. He said she recognized him as he began removing her from the wreck. She told him her name at that time.

Questioned about the presence of beer cans along the road just east of the bridge, Stohr said the cans were there earlier when he drove by. He said there was no presence of alcholic beverages in or near the car, "and I do not believe any of the youngsters were drinking," he said.

Regarding the speed of the car just prior to the accident, Stohr said he could only state that he was sure the driver was exceeding the speed limit but could not say by how many miles per hour.

The accident was reported to the Sedalia police by an unidentified person, according to Stohr. The patrolman said a truck driver, whose name was not available, said that the '57 Ford passed him at a high rate of speed a few minutes prior to the accident in

As Threatened By Russia

US Favors Giving UN Force Power To Stop Intervention

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has decided that United Nations forces in the Congo should be empowered to block outside arms or troop intervention, as threatened by the Soviet Union.

Under this decision the use of force in an effort to isolate the Congo from outside interference is being strongly supported, along with other measures aimed at stopping the civil war raging there.

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk attacked the highest priority to evolving measures for meeting the Congo crisis with all possible speed.

They are reported fearful that a breakdown of the U. N. peacemaking mission in the face of heavy attack by the Soviet Union would prove to be a disaster plunging most of Africa into the cold war and endangering world peace.

But there is some hopeful feeling in high quarters here that the Soviet government badly overplayed its hand following disclosure of the slaying of former Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba. Early this week, Moscow demanded withdrawal of U. N. forces from the Congo within a month and pledged assistance to the rebel, pro-Communist regime of Antoine Gizenga, a Lumumba lieutenant.

Kennedy took an exactly opposite stand at his news conference Wednesday. He warned the Russians against direct intervention in the Congo outside the United Nations and pledged U.S. support to the U.N. Congo mission. Kennedy also reaffirmed U.S. backing for the regime of President Joseph Kasavubu.

With the two great powers thus squared off over the huge, primitive and mineral-rich land in the heart of Africa, other nations at U.N. headquarters in New York suddenly began to strive harder for a diplomatic solution.

Startling to officials here, it became clear Saturday, was the action of the United Arab Republic in joining Friday with Ceylon and Liberia to propose authorizng the use of force by U.N. troops to bring unruly native armies under control.

The U.A.R. has ben regarded as a strong supporter of Soviet efforts to promote the Lumumbist movement. There have been persistent reports that U.A.R. cooperation was effective in delivering some Communist arms to the rebel forces at Stanleyville.

In spite of this background the U.A.R. in effect proposed that—contrary to the Soviet demand for withdrawal — the United Nations troops should be given greatly expanded power.

The U.S. tactic is to consider the proposed use-of-force resolution as a basis for negotiations. What is sought is a new and stronger U.N. policy for the Congo mission. The Soviet Union may have brightened the prospect of general agreement on such a policy by frightening the small nations with threats virtually to weck the United Nations.

Thieves Didn't Know About All His Locks

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Jeweler James Day, who often carried gems in his auto,, fitted two locks to every door of the car, three to the trunk and two chains to each door window.

Friday while Day was visiting friends his parked burglar-proof car was burgled of $19,600 worth of jewelry. The burglars got in by jimming open one of the ventilation windows—which was unchained and unlocked.

12,000 Britons, Scots March

Philosopher Leads Move For Nuclear Disarmament

LONDON (AP)—Philosopher Bertrand Russell launched his civil disobedience campaign for nuclear disarmament Saturday, leading thousands of Britons in a sit-down demonstration outside the London Defense Ministry.

Another demonstration — like Russell's against the projected American Polaris base on Scotland's Holy Loch—massed more than 7,000 marchers in the streets of Glassgow.

The rallies in Britain's two biggest cities were the largest public protests so far against the Polaris base and nuclear weapons. An estimated 12,000 persons took part in the two demonstrations.

Close to 5,000 marched from London's Marble Arch to a rally in Tranfalgar Square which was addressed by Earl Russell. The elderly philosopher-peer had announced in advance he was ready to go to jail rather than abandon his "sitdown" strike But police made no arrests.

Jamming a felt hat on his thick gray thatch of hair, Russell led the marchers to the government district in Whitehall. A box-formation of police, shoulder-to-shoulder, barred his way outside the Defense Ministry. So Russell, now 88, sat down on the sidewalk. Behind him the sidewalks were soon covered as, row on row, the marchers followed his example. And soon the sidewalks on three sides of the ministry were blocked by seated figures.

Reinforced police squads of around 400 watched quietly, but made no effort to move the demonstrators on.

Fire trucks stood by to use hoses on the crowd if the demonstration got out of hand. Magistrates were ready at Bow Street court to deal with arrests.

It was one of the most orderly displays of disobedience ever seen in London. For three hours the demonstrators sat on the cold sidewalk—playing chess, reading, talking, drinking tea from vacuum flasks.

The demonstrators were well-wrapped against the February cold.

Russell eventually was allowed through the police line to fix a declaration to the door of the ministry. An official dissuaded him from using a nail and offered him a piece of tape. Russell accepted it and stuck up the protest. It was later taken inside the ministry.

Strike By Engineers Back In Full Bloom

Temporary Settlement Efforts Fail

Thousands Mill Around Airports Across The Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—A flight engineers' strike against six of the nation's major domestic and overseas airlines returned to full bloom late Saturday after a Presidential appeal gave earlier indications of a temporary settlement.

A spokesman for the 3,500-member engineers union admitted the travel-crippling walkout was unauthorized, but expressed doubt this would have any effect on bringing the engineers back to work.

Thousands of persons milled around airports across the nation waiting for flights that eventually were canceled or delayed for hours by the strike action and sympathy walkouts.

The temporary settlement appeared near about noon when officials of the union ordered strikers against Pan American World Airways to return to their jobs in compliance with President Kennedy's request for a 60-day cooling off period while a special board studied the labor disagreement.

It was Pan American flight engineers who touched off the strike Friday night at New York's Idlewild Airport in a dispute over a reduction of work time for the engineers.

The walkout soon mushroomed across the nation as flight engineers for other carriers began to report sick or failed to report at all.

Ailine officials immediately termed the stoppage an illegal walkout — and injunctions were sought by several lines to force the engineers back to work.

Shortly after the stoppage erupted again, a federal court order was issued in Brooklyn barring the flight engineers union from engaging in strikes or refusing to accept flight assignments.

Judge Leo F. Rayfield's order forbade the engineers to strike before Feb. 28 and called for a hearing Feb. 27 on the injunction petition filed by Pan American.

A federal judge in Miami granted a temporary restraining order to Eastern Air Lines and ordered their engineers to return. Several other applications for similar orders were filed by other airlines.

Ron Brown, president of the engineers' union, said in Washington the engineers are conducting a protest walkout against a decision of the Federal Mediation Board Feb. 6.

The board said then the flight engineers would have to join the Air Lines Pilots' Association as one single bargaining unit.

"While the walkout is unauthorized by this international," Brown

A Discoverer A Day Rate

Satellite's Engines Restarted In Space

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer XXI shot into orbit Saturday, then—by restarting its engine on a signal from the ground—showed how currently passive sky spies can be converted into maneuverable military space craft.

The Air Force said this was the first time an Agena B. satellite vehicle had been restarted in orbit.

The Agena engine was ignited on the satellite's first pass around the earth's poles.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Missile Division, said that Saturday's attempt was only to test the restart system.

"It is another successful experiment to perfect the system for satellite stabilization and control in orbit," the general said.

No attempt to recover any part of the satellite will be made.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The second Discoverer in 27 hours rocketed into orbit Saturday with heat-sensitive devices needed to perfect upcoming Midas missile-detection satellites.

The launchings Friday and Saturday—an obvious speedup in American satellite research—set a record in the lagging Discoverer series.

These workhorse satellites were originally scheduled to be fired at a rate of one a month. Some have been launched as much as two months apart. No two have been closer than six days.

Discoverer XXI roared away from its seaside launching pad at 2:58 p.m. (PST). The launching was delayed several hours while Discoverer XX passed overhead and swung into orbit far to the west.

The 2,100-pound second stage—all of it designed to go in orbit around the earth's poles—comprised the upper 25 feet of the 81-foot projectile.

The Air Force said it would have an active life in orbit of only two days, but would not elaborate. Most Discoverers have stayed in orbit two to four weeks.

In place of the capsule, Saturday's rocket contained instruments to measure the earth's normal heat radition. Forthcoming Midas satellites will have infrared "eyes" to detect above-normal flashes of heat—such as the firing of an intercontinental missile.

Data from the instruments sent aloft will be radioed back to receiving stations on the ground.

Hudson Files His Petition On Saturday

Stanton Hudson, publisher of the weekly "Sedalia Times," said Saturday he had filed his petition with the City Clerk in which he seeks to unseat the Board of Public Works and the manager of the Sedalia Water Department, Major Hagar.

Hudson told The Democrat-Capital he had secured 1,114 signatures but that some of the petition forms being circulated around town at various business establishments had not all been returned. He said he thought this (the 1,114 signatures) was enough to get action by the City Council and Mayor.

Hudson began spearheading the drive about ten days ago, he said, "after being urged to do so by friends of his." During the drive for signatures, some advertising was placed with various media in Sedalia seeking support of local water users.

There has been no comment from either the Public Works Board, Mr. Hagar, or Mayor Abe Silverman regarding the petition.

Councilman Jack Cunningham told The Democrat-Capital, shortly after the petitions appeared, that the council would have to treat the petition as it would any petition, in accordance with good city government.

The petition circulation followed actions of the City Council which authorized the Public Works Board to increase Sedalia water rates 15 per cent effective March 1.

Kennedy And Advisors 'Explore' Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and top administration advisors on policy toward the Soviet Union held a two-hour "exploration" into U. S.-Soviet relations Saturday.

It was presumed that Soviet activity in the Congo was a chief topic, but a White House spokesman told reporters this was only one in a series of review of the cold war situation.

"They are not trying to reach decisions or chart policies, but to explore relations between the two countries," said assistant press secretary Andrew Hatcher.

Hodges Sees Upturn In Employment By April

WASHINGTON (AP) — An upturn in employment by April was forecast Saturday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

Hodges said he expects President Kennedy's antirecession program to give a lift to business generally by spring.

The secretary's remarks were made during a televised discussion with Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and John Lindsay, R-N.Y., filmed here for use in New York.

Hodges said the nation's economy is basically sound, but that emergency measures were called for to relieve the unempolyment situation.

Bolivar Jewelry Store Broken Into, Robbed

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP)—A jewelry store in Bolivar was broken into early Saturday and "cleaned out of almost everything of value," Sheriff Glen Carson said.

A perliminary inventory disclosed that 119 wrist-watches, 38 diamond rings, two pearl necklaces, 200 to 300 watch bands and nine birthstone rings were missing.

There was no immediate estimate of loss. The inventory was still going on, Sheriff Carson said.

Entry to the store was gained through a rear window.

Oklahoma Looks At Wreckage From Twisters

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma surveyed the wreckage of the year's first tornadoes Saturday. The damage was fairly heavy but there was no loss of life.

Residents of storm - battered areas credited early warnings with saving lives and keeping the injury toll to 14.

Two areas were hit. One was just east of Oklahoma City. The other was a line in south-central Oklahoma running northeastward from Stratford to Konawa to Wewoka. Hardest hit was Konawa.

City Manager Granville Shed estimated property damage might reach $2.5 million in Konawa. Only a small amount of power had been restored and city officials said it probably would be Sunday before water supply is back in operation. Water in bottles and cartons was being handed out and there was enough on hand, they said.

In all, five persons were injured. But it could have been worse. Learning that a storm was approaching, fireman Earl Gassaway blew a warning siren for 15 minutes before the twister hit about 7 p.m.

Voter Registration Opens at Courthouse

Jim Green, County Clerk, has announced his office will accept registration of voters in the clerk's office Monday and Tuesday.

"Anyone who has become of age or moved here should come up and register," Green said.

Carpenters and Joiners

Local Union Favors JFK Insurance Bill

A letter to the public supporting President Kennedy's health insurance program for 14.2 million Americans 65 or older financed by an increase in social security taxes, has been prepared by Local 1792, United Brotherhood of the Carpenters and Joiners of America. The letter follows:

"We the undersigned members of Local Number 1782, of the United Brotherhood of the Carpenters and Joiners of America, wish to extend our thanks to the Sedalia Democrat-Capital for extending to us the opportunity to present our views concerning the medical aid bill now pending in the United States House of Representatives, in answer to an article published in the Democrat-Capital Feb. 12, 1961, by the Central Missouri Insurance Group.

"We, being a minority ourselves, have no fight with the insurance people or any other minority group, we realize that the "majority" is made up of many minorities and must all work together unselfishly, in this time of peril and unrest in the world today, or we might possibly lose our system of free interprise.

"We believe this bill, if passed, will do the most good for the most people. This medical aid bill will be self supporting, being paid for by those who will be benefitted by it, and will not be a burden on the general tax structure. It can be administered by the Social Security Organization which is already in operation, so, there will be very little extra expense to the Social Security setup in putting it into operation.

"We think President Kennedy and the majority of the Congress

Fire Safety Contest

We are asking the community leaders to find out how many 4-H members in their club would like to enter the National Youth Fire Safety contest this year and report the names to the county Extension Office before April 1st.

The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Pettis County has sponsored this contest locally and have provided $50 toward the winning contestants. In the past year or so there has not been too many entering the contest. We think it only fair to the sponsor to have a good sized group before we ask them to sponsor the contest again this year.

We have made the agreement with the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Pettis County to give the award money only if there is at least 10 members from five clubs. Also, any previous first place winners would not be eligible to receive the award money again. If there are 10 or more names turned in from five clubs by April 1st, then we will assume that we will ask the sponsor to go ahead with the sponsorship.

Even though we do not sponsor the contest locally, 4-H members may still make safety checks in the home. Also, we could still have someone from Pettis County entering the State contest. Contact the Extension Office for rules of the contest.

Two 4-H Fun Nights

Four-H members, start making plans to attend one of the county wide 4-H fun nights to be held in March. The 4-H Fun Night for 4-H members 12 years and under will be Friday night, March 10. The Fun Night for 4-H members age 12 and over is Friday night, March 24. Both will start at 7:30 p.m. and be held at the Whittier School gym. Both will include games and square dancing. The 4-H parents and leaders are invited to attend, too, if they wish.

Place these dates on your calendar now as you will not receive a letter from us to remind you of the fun nights.

National 4-H Club Week

National 4-H Club Week, March 4-11, will be observed by more than two million 4-H club members. National 4-H club week posters are being mailed to the Community Leaders in each 4-H club. Some clubs are receiving one, some two and some five. Town clubs are getting five as they have plenty of store windows in which to place them. Use the poster in your window displays or place in store windows alone. The main thing is to use all of the posters sent to you.

Manual 50 is also being mailed to the 4-H community leaders for clubs that were given assignments to place them in waiting rooms during National 4-H Club Week. We hope that every 4-H club will have a committee of three or four 4-H members plus an adult or two to carry out these two responsibilities.

4-H Leaders Pins

The 4-H Leaders not attending the 4-H Leaders Recognition dinner may pick up their pins at the County Extension Office, anytime. The 4-H leaders having five, ten or 15 years of service will receive a recognition certificate along with their pin. Five year certificates have not yet arrived but I hope they will be here soon. All 4-H leader pins and certificates not picked up before the March County 4-H Council meeting will be taken to the Council Meeting and given to each 4-H club community leader to distribute.

Five S-C Students Attend Music Clinic on Saturday

Five Smith-Cotton students attended a band clinic Saturday at Central Missouri State, Warrensburg.

Representing S-C at the all-day clinic were Gary Dyer, trombone; Sandra Hammond, bass clarinet; Danny Lane, trumpet; Larry Trueman, clarinet; and Sue Wollet, oboe. Mrs. Carl Schrader, director of the S-C music department, also attended the session, which was sponsored by the Central Missouri Music Educators' Association.

The clinic was directed by Weston Noble, Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. The day consisted of rehearsals in both the morning and afternoon. Students arriving at CMS auditioned for chairs beginning at 8:30 a.m., with the clinic ending in the late afternoon.

The clinic band was made up of about 125 students from schools across the state. Selection was made on the recommendation of students' local high school band directors, limited only by available space.

Junior High Music Assembly

The junior high enjoyed a pleasant assembly Wednesday morning, Feb. 15, as members of the eighth and ninth grades who participated in the music festival, displayed their musical talents.

Nancy Evans introduced Bob Cummings, who explained the program to follow.

Mike Robinson, Marsha Eding, and Sylvia Thompson began the morning on a high note as they played a flute trio arrangement of "Debonaires."

A vocal solo by Judy Smith, accompanied by Mildred Reed, was next on the program.

The mood changed as Elizabeth Wheller played a violin, "Cavaletto."

Jo Ann Evans gave the second vocal solo of the morning with Mildred Reed accompanying at the piano.

A clarinet solo, "Pepperino," was presented by Janice Goodnight and accompanied by Paulette Lewis.

A most unusual version of "The Three Bears" was given by Pamela Lewis as she sang the story while beating out the rhythm on her knees.

Mike Robinson played "Andelouse" on the flute, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Schrader at the piano.

This was followed by a trumpet trio composed of Paulette Lewis, Doug Fristoe, and Bill Brown playing "Fun for Three."

Closing the program was a vota solo by Sandy Copas, singing "I Heard the Piper Piping." She was accompanied by Mildred Reed.

Intramural Plays

Smith-Cotton intramural plays are scheduled for March 9 (junior high) and 10 (senior high).

Student council committees have charge of the plays. The committees: senior high, Sally Allen (chairman), Andy Roose, and Kay Rotermund; junior high, Paula Stribling, Fred Wertz, and Tommy Gibbs.

The plays are an annual event at S.-C.

Springfield Tournament

The Smith-Cotton debate squad participated in the Springfield Central High School Speech Tournament, Saturday, Feb. 11.

In individual events, two S-C debators went to the finals, but failed to place — Larry Chastain in extemporaneous speaking and Gary Dyer in humorous reading.

Reaching the semi-finals in individuals were Gary Dyer and Bill Hopkins in duet acting, David Hood in original oratory, Bill Hopkins in original oratory, and David Hood in dramatic reading.

In debate, the team of Gary Dyer and Larry Chastain beat West Plains in the quarter finals, but lost to Park View in the semi-finals. Park View then went on to win the tournament. The S-C team of Chuck Needy and Bill Hopkins had an overall record of two wins and two losses.

Student Congress

Six Smith-Cotton speech students and Harold McAninch, head of S-C's speech department, will be in attendance at the Missouri Student Congress to be held this coming Friday and Saturday, Feb. 24-25, in the Capitol Building at Jefferson City.

The six students are Mary Louise Barnes, Larry Chastain, Gary Dyer, Jeff Lockett, Chuck Needy, and Karen Sue Rissler. Student Congress is a working model of the nation's legislative department, and many of the bills considered will soon be up for consideration in the Missouri Legislature. Bills passing last year included one to abolish the section of the Missouri juvenile code which prevents publishing names of youthful offenders. This action, however, has not been duplicated by the real legislature.

Want Powerful Fleet

Navy Alarmed Over Number Of Surface Ship Opponents

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy is alarmed over the number of epitaphs being written by self-appointed experts in rival services for its surface warships, especially aircraft carriers.

In the Navy's opinion these proponents of surface ship cutbacks have an almost total misunderstanding of sea power in the thermonuclear age.

One of the pressing tasks facing the new administration is construction of a firm, over-all defense policy.

By and large the Navy and Army have argued that it would be folly to prepare for only nuclear warfare.

Both the Army and Navy insist this nation must be prepared to fight non-nuclear wars. To the Navy this means retention of a powerful surface fleet.

Rear Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, director of the Navy's strategic plans division, says the Navy cannot yet foresee the day when all surface warships will be obsolete.

"One of the functions of the Navy—the primary function—is the projection of the nation's combat power from sea to shore," the admiral said, adding that this is something the submarine can now do directly only in all-out war. (An amphibious landing such as the Normandy beachhead in World War II was a projection of combat power from sea to shore).

The admiral's concept of naval purpose, by the way, has been standard since the beginning of recorded naval history in 2550 B.C., when the Egyptian Pharaoh Sahure used transports to ferry his army overseas.

Since that first recorded naval operation, sea warfare has progressed from the use of oars to atomic power, from spears to nuclear missiles.

But while the technology of naval warfare has undergone more than 4,500 years of evolution, the Navy maintains that the basic mission of fleets has remained unchanged.

There is no doubt, however, that technological advances have revolutionized the way in which wars of the future may be fought.

Until the second half of the 20th century no nation possessed the means of visiting utter destruction on another within a matter of minutes.

This fact has divided warfare into two parts: all-out and something less than all-out.

In all-out nuclear war the underwater missile-launching platform, the Polaris submarine, would play a major role in the enemy's destruction.

While the Polaris-type submarine, along with the Air Force's missile capacity, is viewed by the Navy as an indispensable deterrent to all-out war, the Navy believes the probability of such a war is becoming more and more remote.

The Navy reasons that as the United States and the Soviet Union approach a thermonuclear stalemate, the possibility of wars for limited objectives increases.

In a limited war, the Navy believes, surface ships will still be essential for the transport of supplies and manpower and to put that manpower ashore and keep it there.

To the Navy this beachhead requirement means aircraft carriers to establish air supremacy over the beachhead area.

Adm. Ricketts said that unless the United States is willing to become a "fortress America," cut off from vital supplies and an isolated target for a Communist-dominated world, a Navy capable of projecting the nation's combat power from sea to shore must be maintained.

The Navy argues that if the Communists are permitted to nibble away at the world outside the Iron Curtain, the United States might ultimately find itself surrounded and able to prevent domination only through all-out war.

At present, only the Soviet Union with its fleet of 450 to 500 submarines would be in any position to contest the passage of a U.S. fleet on or under the surface.

For all practical purposes in the future, the submarine probably will be the Navy's ship-of-the-line, a designation first coined by the British to indicate a ship which can fight broadside-to-broadside in the battle line with an opponent of equal strength.

A ship-of-the-line is a fleet's capital ship and heretofore has always been a surface ship—such as the Greek Trireme, then the stately 74-gun British sailing ship, the battleship and finally late in World War II, the carrier.

While the submarine will be the first-line warship in a future war, the Navy insists that the carrier will still have a place in the fleet—and so will other surface ships.

The Navy has vastly improved its methods of detecting submarines and has developed atomic depth charges capable of crushing submarine hulls at great range.

In addition, the Navy is working on a complex weapons system of missiles, computers and airborne radar to protect surface ships against enemy missiles and aircraft.

While the U.S. fleet is undergoing a process of evolution, Adm. Ricketts said, "I just cannot see the end of surface ships in the near term. If our thesis of something less than all-out war is correct, then we still have to have a capability of projecting our combat power from sea to shore."

Even in all-out war Adm. Ricketts does not discount the versatility of the carrier with its planes capable of carrying atomic bombs.

Since a fleet presents a moving target, the Navy is convinced it is almost immune to attack by any long-range land-based ballistic missiles.

The approach of missile-carrying enemy planes, the Navy says ,, would be detected in time to launch aircraft and defensive missiles against them.

Carriers ranging around the perimeter of the Soviet Union present an impossible defense problem to the Soviets ,the Navy maintains, much more so than aircraft flying from bases whose positions are known.

No Change Made In Tax Amount IRS Man Says

There has not been a change in Social Security tax rates. This emphatic statement was made by E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of Internal Revenue today. He said his office has been receiving many calls from employes and employers relating to changes made in Social Security tax rates. He believes this confusion was caused by a stuffer in last month's Employer's Tax forms which listed several changes in Social Security taxes and a rate change in Federal Unemployment taxes.

The Director said the only rate change effective Jan. 1, 1961 was in the Unemployment Tax rate which would apply to Forms 940 filed in January of 1962.

The Social Security (FICA) tax rate is still three per cent for the employe and three per cent for the employer. Employers should therefore not make any changes in FICA withholdings on their employes during 1960.

The local IRS office has received more than 100 calls regarding a change in the tax rate.

Mrs. Grace Dwyer's letter was read by the president, Mrs. Fred Logan.

The members voted on a golden anniversary celebration in view of Achievement Day.

The only higher total since the 40s was 26,954 in the week ending May 9, 1958.

$32,000 Worth Stolen Radios Back In Wichita

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Stolen Airplane radios worth an estimated $32,000 were returned to Wichita Friday from Oklahoma as officers pushed the investigation of a four-state theft ring.

Vance Houdyshell, agent for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, said arrests are expected soon.

First break in the case came recently when a number of the stolen radios were found hidden under a tarpaulin in an abandoned house at Norman, Okla., Houdyshell said.

Houdyshell and sheriff's detective Syd Werbin returned Friday from Oklahoma City, where they worked with officers of the Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation on the case.

The 27 $1,200 radios they brought back to Wichita were sets stolen from airports at Wichita and nearby Rose Hill. Thefts believed linked in the last three months, they said, occurred in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arizona.

Werbin said a number of private plane owners, who reported they bought the stolen radios for $350 to $500, were ordered by Oklahoma authorities to return the sets at Oklahoma City.

Houdyshell said the "fences" through whom the sets were sold were traced and officers "are now ready to move in on the theft ring itself."

Tigers Split On Weekend

Lose To Mexico Friday, Whip Rolla Saturday Nite

Tim Morgan, Mike Wiseman and Charlie Case scored a total of 75 points Friday night to lead the Smith-Cotton Tigers past the Rolla Bulldogs, 84-77, in a Central Missouri Conference battle at Smith-Cotton.

Friday night, the Tigers dropped the powerful Mexico Bulldogs at ped 71-49 conference decision to Mexico.

After the weekend, the Bengals are left with a 15-6 season record and a 5-4 conference mark.

The Tigers led, 39-34 at halftime Saturday night then Case went to work, in the third period, scoring eight points to lead a 29-point assault that gave the Tigers a 68-57 lead. Case wound up with 18 points on nine field goals—all of them in the second half.

Morgan was the game's leading scorer with 29 points, followed by Wiseman with 28.

Rolla showed a well-balance scoring attack, although it was inadequate to cope with the sizzling Tigers. Wallace led the visitors with 22 points, Short had 15, and Baylor and McCaw had 15 and 14, respectively.

Smith-Cotton's B team won its second in two night's getting away with a 57-55 decision in an unusually high scoring game for B teams.

The junior Tigers led, 48-39, going into the fourth quarter, then weathered a Rolla rally to save the victory. The Bulldogs outscored the Sedalians in the final period, 16-9.

Larry McCown led the Tigers with 18 points, but Rolla's Whalen took game honors with 21.

Mexico's big Bulldogs were just too much for the Sedalians Friday night in posting a 71-49 conference triumph at Mexico.

Mexico's 6-feet-5 Richard Theonen hogged the rebounds and scored 23 points. However, Smith-Cotton's Tim Morgan took game scoring honors with 24.

Mexico's biggest asset was having ample scoring support for Theonen. Larry Fetterhoff and Larry Campbell tossed in 13 and 12 respectively.

The Tigers stayed in competition for one quarter, but the Bulldogs outscored the Sedalians 18-7 in the second period for a comfortable 34-20 halftime margin. Mexico continued to pad its lead throughout the contest.

Sedalia had an unusually cold night from the field, hitting only 21 percent of its field shots in the first half and 28 percent in the second.

Smith-Cotton's B team staged a fourth-quarter rally to handily whip the Mexico B squad, 51-38.

The Tigers trailed, 36-34, as the fourth period started, then outscored Mexico, 17-4, to wrap up the victory.

Mexico appeared bent on turning the game into a rout at the start, taking a 10-4 lead. However, the Tigers began a long uphill climb in the second period and caught the Bulldogs early in the fourth quarter.

Only five Tigers scored, but they scored well. Bill Ferguson, Bobby Nagel and Randy Short scored 13, 12, and 11, respectively.

Auery led Mexico with 10 points.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

THE portion of the 1960-61 basketball season that every high school player looks forward to has arrived. Starting this week the Class S and Class M schools will begin their regional tournaments and follow through with their State tournament the following week. Class L schools will begin their regional play on Monday Feb. 27th.

There is considerable speculation regarding three popular teams of this area in the Class "S" and "M" play. Here in Sedalia the C.C. Hubbard Tigers slated to play as the No. 1 seeded team at Warrensburg, is expected to make it through this regional meet. It is likely they may come in contact with another area team in Hughesville in the play-offs.

Should Hubbard become victorious, and should Malta Bend, which team is seeded No. 1 in the Alma regionals, then these two teams are slated to meet the following week at Alma in the quarter-finals, and the winner travels to the State.

Hubbard is considered the top team in the Warrensburg play and Malta Bend at Alma. There has created among fans the possibilities of these teams meeting and the results. Malta Bend, according to seasonal play would be favored somewhat over Hubbard, but local players and especially the coaching staff believe they can out play the boys from up on the Missouri River.

Warsaw is another team which the area basketball teams favor to win at Bolivar in spite of their two losses at the Eldon tournament. Warsaw lost games there which do not mean as much to the team as the state "M" Class tournament play. Although seeded No. 3, at Bolivar, their opponents can anticipate considerable trouble.

Windsor of the "M" Class is seeded No. 1 in the Harrisonville regional and rightfully so. Windsor has had a terrific season and should sail through this tournament if statistics hold.

Tipton is in the Tipton regionals of "M" Class and seeded No. 3, while Eldon another strong area team is No. 4. Eugene is the No. 1 seeded team and considered the team to beat.

The Class "L" tournament likewise are expected to be tough this year with Smith-Cotton traveling to Raytown for their regional play. Smith-Cotton according to various area coaches, is expected to go far if not win this regional. The Tigers, although they lost to Mexico Friday, have a seasonal record of 15 wins and six losses.

Raytown is seeded No. 1, Smith-Cotton No. 2, Southeast of Kansas City third, and Southwest of Kansas City fourth. The drawings were completed Saturday morning at Raytown at which Coach Howard Glavin was present.

This regional play starts Monday, Feb. 27. Smith-Cotton's first opponent will be Center at 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

Teams and their records: Raytown (17-2), Smith-Cotton (15-6), Southeast (10-6), Southwest (10-7), Center (7-9), Clinton (14-9), Lee's Summit (7-17), Ruskin (6-13), and Grandview (12-7).

—o—

SPORTSWRITERS and sportscasters will be busy checking the various teams in the regionals along with information collected through the seasonal play to prepare themselves for the All-State selections. The All-State debates among the writers and casters, and District Chairmen will take place in St. Louis on Sunday, March 12.

The Association meeting has been called for the above date to follow the Class "L" state tournament which will be played in St. Louis and which ends on Saturday night, March 11. The calling of the meeting will give those who are charged with these selections an opportunity to see the top teams in play in the finals.

Coaches of the area who have watched the various teams play and saw various boys star in games are requested to contact the sportswriters in their areas and furnish them with the desired information as to their favorite player.

Versailles Tops Osage In Last Regular Game

Versailles topped Osage Friday night 60-52 on the Versailles hardwood in the last game for both teams before next week's Tipton Regional Tournament.

The Osage offense was led by Reider and Bentz, each with 14 points.

Duke Squeezes Past Fighting Navy 75-73

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Third-ranked Duke squeezed past a fighting Navy team for a 75-73 basketball victory Saturday, ending a two-game losing streak.

Slate Meetings On Decline In Small Game

Conservation Commission field employees have scheduled meetings throughout the state this month for the purpose of getting hunters and land-owners together who are willing to help do something about the decline in small game.

These hunter workshops are designed to establish better understanding with the land owners and to lay plans for improving upland game populations. Since nearly all land in the state is privately owned it is essential the land owners be a strong part of the program.

The hunter - land owner meeting is scheduled in Pettis County on Feb. 24 at 8 p.m. and is to be held at the courthouse in Sedalia. Everyone who likes to hunt upland game and who is interested in improving his sport is encouraged to attend. Hunters, farmers this is your opportunity to help bring back the much sought bob white quail and other valued game.

Cole Camp Gets Past Hughesville

Cole Camp took a squeaker away from Hughesville Friday night 49-47 before a packed crowd in the Cole Camp gymnasium.

The game was the last Pettis-Benton County Athletic conference game for the teams. Although Cole Camp won the game, it winds up in third place in conference standings while Hughesville is in second place and powerful Warsaw leads the loop.

Cole Camp's girls volleyball team, however, did bring home the conference title Friday night with a lopsided 38 - 8 triumph. Keisel led the girls from Cole Camp with 11 points while for Hughesville it was Monsees with 2.

In the varsity basketball game, it was nip and tuck battle all the way. The score was tied at 10-10 after the first period and Cole Camp managed to build up a narrow 25-22 margin at halftime.

Both teams picked up nine points in the third period. In the final stanza, play got hot and heavy and Hughesville managed to outscore Cole Camp 16-15, but it wasn't enough.

Hughesville carried home high point honors on the strength of Martin's 19 point performance. Teammate Stephens was a close second with 17. Lange led Cole Camp scoring with 14.

Penny Banner

Hard-Hitting Mat Action Is Expected

Hard-hitting wrestling down the line is on tap on Tuesday at Convention Hall when the pros return for a full round of action.

Ray Gordon gets an opportunity to show off the Texas rules tactics he picked up during an extended stay in the Southwest and he expects to turn the full force of his fury on one of the Masked Medics.

That could be the roughest of the four-bout card lined up here. Gordon, always an exceptional leg wrestler, has broadened his variety of holds and the tough action under Texas rules has forced him to alter his offense considerably. If anything, Ray's a harder hitter because of his sojourn in the southwest.

If that should fail to measure up in the way of fast-moving, bruising action—which isn't likely — then two rugged Hennings, Lee and John Paul, should be able to fill the bill.

The veteran Lee, now 46, is as sharp and rugged a campaigner as he was 20 years ago. Only now he has a wide advantage in experience going for him. John Paul, who is no relation to Lee, could put a feather in his cap by overpowering the New York strong man. Both are rugged battlers and anything is likely to happen when they collide.

It will fall to Penny Banner and Peggy King to add spice to the card in the women's match, while another Medic tries to handle Happy Humphrey, the 720-pound ex-farm boy who is fast making a name for himself in the pro ranks. It goes without saying he's a difficult fellow to pin.

Smithton Hands Stover 60-50 Loss In Finale

The Stover Bulldogs ended the 1960-61 basketball campaign Friday night with a 60-50 loss to the Smithton Tigers at Stover. The Bulldogs wound up with a 7-17 season record, which they'll take into the Tipton Regional Tournament Monday night. They meet California at 8 o'clock.

The game was a see-saw affair through the first half, which ended in a 26-26 deadlock. The Tigers broke the game open in the third period with a 43-35 lead which they never yielded.

Murphy led the Tigers with 24 points, and Larry Shackelford led Stover with 18.

Smithton also won the B game, taking a 24-22 victory. Bass led the winners with 10 points, and De Long had 8 for the Bulldogs.

Bud Vallino, McFarland Spark Mules

The Central Missouri State Mules swamped Rolla's Miners, 71-58, Saturday night behind the fine shooting of Bud Vallino and Gordon McFarland. Each wound up with 18 points to lead all scorers.

The MIAA game was played in Garrison Gymnasium, Warrensburg, and gave the Mules a 12-7 season record and 4-5 conference mark. Rolla is 7-13 and 1-7.

Vallino, a 6-foot-4 freshman from Edwardsville, Ill., sparked CMS to a 36-29 halftime lead with 14 points in the first half. He socred eight of those in the first five minutes.

The Mules took an early five-point lead, holding Rolla scoreless the first two and a half minutes before Terry Wiegard broke the ice with a free throw.

The Miners were hot during the first few minutes of the second half and pulled to within three points of CMS on two different occasions. However, McFarland led the Mules to a 12 point advantage which they never relinquished.

McFarland, a 6-foot-2 sophomore, scored 14 of his 18 points in the second half. He was brilliant in rebounding, blocking shots, and he even stole the ball from the Miners on several occasions.

Browns' Plumb Wins NFL Passing Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Milt Plum of the Cleveland Browns came into his own in 1960, winning the passing championship of the National Football League. Final official figures Saturday revealed Plum finished first in three categories and third in three others among the six groupings used to make the over-all ratings.

The former Penn State quarterback, playing his fourth season as a pro, was first in per cent completed, 60.4; average gain, 9.19 yards, and in lowest percentage of interceptions, 2.0. He was third in completions, 151; yards gained, 2,297, and touchdown passes, 21. He lost only five passes to interception, all in the last two games.

Norm Van Brocklin, who led Philadelphia to the championship before retiring to coach the new Minnesota entry, was second in his 12th year as a pro. Johnny Unitas of Baltimore finished third.

Kirksville Upsets Cape Girardeau 86-63

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Kirksville, completely out of the running in the MIAA basketball race, slapped down conference leader Cape Girardeau Saturday night in a surprising upset 86-63.

The defeat broke a 17-game winning streak for the losers, who already have been invited to play in the NCAA small college regionals. Cape now has a 7-1 conference record, Kirksville 4-5.

4 Players Come To Terms With Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Four players, among them Norm Siebern, a top hitter in the 1960 season, came to terms Saturday with the Kansas City Athletics.

The signings brought the roster to 33, with five players yet to go. Outfielder, Siebern, 27, hit .279 last season and led the club in homers with 19 and in runs batted in with 69.

The other signers were players recently obtained from the Baltimore club. One is Clint Courtney, a catcher who is starting his 10th year in the majors. He hit .227 for the Orioles last season.

The others are outfielder Frank Cipriani, who hit .340 for Sanford in the Florida State League in 1960, and Jim Archer, a left handed pitcher, who won 11 and lost 12 last season with Miami of the International League.

Kansas State Rolls Past Mizzou 99-70

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Kansas State's sixth-ranked Wildcats kept in the Big Eight basketball race by blasting cold-shooting Missouri 99-70 Saturday night.

The victory was Kansas State's seventh in the league against two losses and gave the Cats a 16-4 season mark. Kansas went into its game with Colorado at Boulder as Big Eight leader on 7 victories and one loss.

K-State scored first and the Tigers never caught up. The Wildcats had a 17-point advantage, 49-32, at the half and quickly increased their lead after the intermission. The visitors, with Al Peithman scoring 22 points and Ced Price adding 20, kept a lead of from 20 to 26 points most of the second period.

Although the Tigers were badly outclassed, Charles Henke set a Missouri scoring record by hitting 33 points for a career total of 1,210 points in 69 games. The former record of 1,188 was set by Bob Reiter in four seasons.

Joe Scott of Missouri scored 19 points and became the 17th player in Big Eight history to make a 1,000 or more points. Scott now has 1,018.

City Reveals

the property would be deeded to the City, with payments to be made something like rent, as the surplus funds became available.

Evans further offered to underwrite more money to be used for remodeling the telephone building, if that would become necessary.

Robert Cunningham, City Engineer, reported that he had inspected the telephone building, and found it to be in good condition. The exterior and walls are in good condition, the internal structure is in good condition, the plumbing is in good condition, and the basement, boilers and heating plant are all in good condition.

The building does need some painting, redecorating and refinishing, a survey shows, some partitions need to be installed and an elevator is needed. Burl Sammons, in presenting tentative plans for remodeling, pointed out the elevator base and penthouse were in good condition, but the rails, machinery and elevator cage would have to be installed.

According to the tentative plans presented by Sammons, for consideration and discussion, the Water Department would have space on the first floor and in part of the basement, the combined Pettis County-Sedalia Civil Defense area would be in the basement, and other City offices could be on the first floor.

Mayor Silverman pointed out that these plans are only tentative, and that the Board of Public Works has not been consulted in regards to moving the Water Department.

Plans for combining the City and County jails into one jail, possibly on the third floor were discussed. Sammons outlined a jail plan, similar to the plan for the County jail proposed and defeated in a bond election last year.

Judge C. M. Purchase of the County Court asked about financing the jail. Mayor Silverman said the city could deed the third floor to the county, and the county could make the improvements, or some other arrangement could be worked out.

It was also suggested that if the City and County worked together on the jail plan, the present county jail could be torn down and a combined city-county parking lot could be built on the site.

To bring the matter to a head, Naugel asked for action as soon as possible. He stated he would be willing to appear before the City Council at some future meeting and formally make the proposal. After discussing the matter with Timborious, who wanted time for the Planning and Zoning Commission to study the matter, it was decided to bring the matter up at he first Council meeting in March.

are trying to do the most good for the most people—that, instead of fooling around trying to prime the so-called economic pump by pouring billions of dollars of tax money into it, they are looking over the pipe line and trying to plug some of the leaks between the pump and the kitchen sink. It is a known fact that our capacity of production in this technological age, has a potential of producing more than we can consume, so let us, instead of each group fighting the other, support our elected representatives in their efforts to repair the leaks in the pipeline, (distribution system) we believe the pump (production capacity) is in good condition, and is only waiting for the "pipeline" to be repaired so their commodities can get through to the kitchen sink (the consumer).

"The dream of every individual is security in their old age. Why cant' we have it? Because two or three of the smallest minorities in the country will lose some of their potential profits.

"We urge the citizens of the Sedalia area to write the Missouri delegation in Congress, Washington, D.C., and express your views on this medical bill. The minorities fighting this bill are small but loud."

the straightaway between Brown's service station and the El Rancho Motel.

When the car struck the railing, the front portion broke off and went over the embankment and was near the driver's body. The car's engine also went over the railing and rolled into the ditch on the south side of the road.

All of the passengers in the car were students at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

Stohr said no witnesses to the accident had been located and he did not believe anyone saw the car smash into the bridge railing.

The bodies of Moore and Miss Elwell were taken to Ewing's Funeral Home. Murphey's body was taken to the Gillespie's and Miss Wilson was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance.

Bodies of all the victims were later removed to the Brauninger Funeral Home in Warrensburg.

These were Pettis County's first traffic fatalities for the year. Last year's first fatality occurred on the same date just one hour and 20 minutes earlier. This accident happened at the junction of U.S. 65 and State Route 52 at what is known as the Windsor junction.

There were 13 fatalities in the county during 1960.

Americanize Nation

Britain Rapidly Becoming '51st State' in the Union

LONDON (AP)—Two of Britain's last three prime ministers have been half American, which is a subtle pointer to the sweeping Americanization of this nation.

Those sons of American mothers —Sir Winston Churchill and the present prime minister, Harold Macmillan—probably would deny it indignantly, but Britain is rapidly becoming the 51st state.

Churchill's mother was New Yorker Jennie Jerome.

Macmillan's mother, Nellie Belles, was born in Indianapolis.

Living in London can be a rare experience for a citizen of the United States, but it's also a little embarrassing to watch the once-proud English embrace, almost with enthusiasm, the modern way of life of a former colony.

There are some things so essentially British, of course, that these 60 million people will cling to them for a long time. The list, however, is not long.

Foremost are the monarchy, Parliament and British justice. And they have their own idea of fair play, love of the underdog, a becoming modesty, the exasperating game of cricket, dry cigars, umbrellas as a part of everyday dress, sherry and men's clubs.

There also are some things so blatlantly American that even the British, in their half-conscious headlong rush to replace their way of living with something from across the Atlantic, may never take on.

They're such things as: automatic shotguns—they're not sporting, old boy; clambakes — they don't have the clams or the mass conviviality; college fraternities—too juvenile, old chap; Western saddles — (What's the matter, afraid you'll fall off?); and crew cuts (I say, this is too much, what?).

Fifty years ago, who would have imagined that London—then the center of one of the world's greatest empires—would one day have over 300 establishments selling hamburgers and hot dogs to the subjects of the monarch?

Or that the Victorian pub on the High Street would give way to a juke box joint where British youth, dressed in blue jeans of the American West, would rock 'n' roll and, between dances, swill themselves with a soft drink originating in Atlanta, Ga.?

Numerous factors have contributed to the Americanization of merrie olde England.

They include: two world wars, vastly quicker communications, almost full employment in a buoyantly British economy, commercial television, the movies and, to a certain extent, the relaxation of imports from the United States.

Take food and drink.

Here are just a few items from the states that have become commonplace staples in the stores of big cities and even in some towns here: American name brands in breakfast foods, salted crackers, beer in cans, coffee — one make is even advertised as "America's favorite coffee" — frozen foods, barbecued chicks, popcorn, cake mixes, salted peanuts, chewing gum and bread, which carries on the wrapper, in letter four inches high, "American loaf."

In addition to the hamburger and hot-dog stands — named "Wimpy" after a character in an American comic strip — U.S.-type diners are sprouting along the British highways.

As to gadgets and appliances, the list is exhaustive. Here are some: washing machines, spin dryers, vacuum cleaners, electric and gas refrigerators, central heating, slot machines, electric toasters, electric shavers, cigarette lighters, home movies, ball-point pens, power mowers, barbecue machines, electric typewriters, and deep freezers.

With bowling alleys, supermarkets, parking meters, department stores, drive-in banks, American cocktail bars in hotels and restaurants, the landscape is assuming a definite state-side look.

Baseball is being played every summer by more and more teams, and a few adventurers have even tried football as played on American gridirons.

Professional wrestling — with all the moaning and groaning — is taking on fast, and the American crooners are about as much of a household word here as they are across the water.

Just say "Elvis," and any British teen-ager knows you mean Presley. The British television screen is saturated with Westerns, comedy series and murder mysteries.

Strangely, Britain has borrowed practically nothing from the American political system.

Of British politics, an American who spent a lot of time here once said: "Like the United States, the British have a two-party system, the difference is that both of theirs are Socialists."

But one day even local politics may change as the United Kingdom physically becomes the 51st state.

Says Hollywood Boulevard In Need of New Buildings

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — A producer long associated with the street says the only way to glamorize Hollywood Boulevard is to tear down most of the buildings and rebuild.

"Fancy sidewalks have gotten the street nothing but bad publicity because of the Charlie Chaplin incident," declares Dave Siegel.

"Unless they get some new buildings up soon, the stars' names will decorate the sidewalks of a skid row."

Siegel, with Ken Murray, produced "Blackouts," the show that ran for nearly eight years near Hollywood and Vine—and made millions for its backers.

"Merchants put up a lot of money for the Walk of Fame and now they're complaining that all the tourists walk along the streets with their heads down looking at the stars' names—instead of the store windows."

Siegel says the land, because of its central location, is still very valuable.

"Fifteen years ago I sold a lot at Hollywood and Argyle for $250,000. Today it's worth a million. Insurance companies will finance skyscraper office buildings on the street at those land figures.

"And one of the first buildings should be an auditorium big enough to get the Academy Awards back from Santa Monica. How's it going to look when Hollywood's most publicized event carries a Santa Monica dateline around the world?"

It's true that Hollywood Boulevard is a disappointment for tourists seeking glamour. Many of its stores have antiquated facades—some even look honky tonk. Yet sightseeing bus companies say it is one of the first sights tourists want to see.

Adds Siegel: "The omission of Chaplin's name is an outrage. How can you honor the people who have made Hollywood famous—and leave out the name of the greatest artist of them all—just because someone on the Hollywood Improvement Association didn't like Chaplin's politics?"

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rowan and Martin, the comedy team, starred in a movie called "Once Upon a Horse"—But they are among the few stars who ever rode to the back lot in the bus with the bit players.

Explains Dick Martin: "The studio limousine was sent to our dressing rooms, but we noticed Bob Steele and Kermit Maynard had to ride the bus.

"When I was a kid, these guys were among the biggest Western stars—my ideals. Dan and I just had to ride in the bus with them."

Steele and Maynard played bit roles in the comedy Western.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A famed movie star who had a little too much of the juice in him fell asleep at a ringside table during comic Joe E. Lewis' show at a night club.

Lewis nudged him awake and said: "I don't mind you sleeping during my act, but it hurts when you don't say nightie-night."

The squelch kept the star awake the rest of the show.

Insurance Firm Shows Big Growth

William C. Safford, president of The Western and Southern Life Insurance company, said today, "In the ten year period ending Dec. 31, 1960, the company had a growth of more than $3 billion insurance in force and assets in excess of $635 million." In the 20 years, since 1940, assets and insurance in force had increased by more than 500 per cent.

In presenting the company's 3rd annual statement, Safford said 1960 operations had increased total assets of $1 billion, 59 million; insurance in force to $5 billion, 241 million; surplus to policyholders to $74 million; and new insurance written amounted to $884 million.

The sales force, in excess of 6,000 men, trained and responsive to the requirements of the people throughout the nation, are serving more than six million policyholders who have entrusted their insurance needs to the company.

Safford stated that the new seven-story building, second major building construction undertaken at the home office in the past three years, in downtown Cincinnati, is now completed at a cost of $4.5 million. The western regional office in Los Angeles, Calif., located on Wilshire Boulevard, was completed in April, 1960; the company's policyholders in the 11 western states, including Alaska and Hawaii, are being serviced from this office. These new facilities, along with the company's other regional offices, located in Philadelphia, Jacksonville, Asheville, St. Louis, and Houston, raise substantially the level of the company's service to its policyholders.

When It Snows, Birds Need Our Help

Birds Face Starvation Without Feeding Plots

By RALPH JONES

It hasn't happened so far this year, but about this time last year it began to snow, and by mid-March a covering of snow and ice had built up to about two feet.

During this period conservation agents and interested citizens worked overtime in an attempt to provide food for wildlife, particularly birds. Many residents of Sedalia and the surrounding area spent a considerable amount of time and money keeping their backyard feeders supplied with food.

Feeding the "city birds" was not much of a problem. All home owners needed was a little feed and the initiative to place food in the feeder. Providing food for the "country birds" was a different thing altogether. Some mistakes were made, which conservation officials hope will not be made this year—in case the feeding of wild birds becomes necessary.

Last year agents inspecting feeding sites saw many game birds that had been killed by predators near the feeding site. Some feed had been put out without grit. Sites were in the open, making it necessary for hungry birds to leave the safety of natural cover to reach the food.

Conversation Agent Chester Vermaas has outlined ways to correct these mistakes if, and when, it becomes necessary to put out food for wild birds.

Feeding sites should be well off traveled roads, in draws, hedge rows or in other natural cover, to provide the birds with an escape route in case they are attacked by predators — cats, foxes, etc.

The feeder should scrape ice and snow from an area in or near overhead cover, to allow the birds to feed in comparative safety. Several small feeding areas are better than one large one.

One vital factor many well-meaning feeders overlooked last winter, Vermaas said, was grit. Without this grinding material, a bird will starve. He may have plenty of seed, or other food, but without sand or other types of grit to grind up the food, starvation will result.

Wild bird feeding should never begin until the supply of natural feed is disrupted. Once feeding is started, it should be continued at regular intervals until the natural supply again becomes available.

Seeds most commonly used in feeding wild birds include finely cracked corn or scratch feed (relatively cheap and available), mixtures of carefully selected seeds containing millet, hemp, buckwheat, rape, clover, sunflower seeds, wheat, barley, oats, wild rice and canary seeds.

Sweepings from the floors of barns or sweepings from the floors of factories using peanuts, pecans and various other grains provide a quantity of attractive food.

The feeding of wild birds does not prevent them from doing their duty in the control of insects and weeds. Birds visit the feeders only periodically, and spend the rest of their time gathering their natural food, if available.

Vermaas said a typical feeding for one covey of quail should be five pounds of seed and about a cup of sand or other grit every two or three days. Regular feeding is vitally important, when natural food is not available, because the birds become used to getting their feed at one place, and if the food is not there they will probably not know where else to search.

Conservation agents keep a constant check on the condition of wildlife, collecting information from many sources, and normally issue special bulletins when feeding becomes necessary.

While the feeding of wild birds is a somewhat technical operation, feeding "city birds" is comparatively simple. Birds in the city normally look for food in back yards. If it is not available, the bird will look in the next yard.

Birds can be attracted to certain places with little effort. Home owners should maintain a habitat similar to the type preferred by the desired species, to include a source of water near protective cover, as well as the desired food.

Most of the time winter feeding of birds is not really necessary, but occasionally individuals like to attract birds to their yards for the pleasure of watching them. During periods of time when their natural food is covered for long periods of time, feeding is necessary. When the birds acquire a habit of visiting a certain yard, they will return from year to year.

There are three specific types of birds as far as food is concerned—seed eaters, insect eaters and omnivorus types. The seed eaters thrive on any cracked seeds and grains. The insect eaters will need suet and meat scraps to tide them over. The omnivorous types will thrive or either the seeds or the meats.

Some of the foods which attract birds include broken nuts, peanut butter, bread crumbs, pieces of pancakes, doughnuts, pie crust, dog biscuits, raisins, cocoanut, all grains and odd pieces of mixed fruits.

Sweepings from elevators and granaries make a suitable supply, as long as no molded grains are used.

Hard, firm, white beef suet is very good, but birds do not care for yellow, stringy suet. Avoid mutton suet, as most birds will not eat it.

Several Sedalians use a selective feeding method. They place the feeders containing grain and other foods for the more attractive birds near the house, and place suet and other food which attracts starlings and other undesirable birds near the back of the yard. This will keep the starlings from chasing off the desirable birds.

Several feeders are best. The home owner should keep the feeders away from places where cats, dogs or other animals will disturb the birds. After all, when the weather gets bad enough to require bird feeding, the other forms of wildlife are hungry too.

Bird feeding stations should not necessarily be covered, but the food must be protected from being covered with ice, snow, or left out in the rain.

The type of feeder makes little difference, as birds are not interested in the design, but in the function of the unit. Shown here are several different types used by Sedalians.

Suet may be tucked in holes drilled in small logs suspended in trees or tied in mesh bags such as the type in which citrus fruits are purchased. Grains and the like are best fed in shallow pans on the bottoms of overturned wash tubs, wood platforms fastened to trees or posts, or on window shelves.

Vermaas stressed as probably the most important thing in bird feeding is the fact that once feeding stations are established, they should be maintained well into spring when natural foods are once again abundant.

Even a day of neglect during a zero-weather spell with heavy snow or ice can be disastrous if birds have become dependent on feeders for survival.

WELL COVERED—This type of bird feeder is common throughout Sedalia. This one, in the backyard of the M. E. Johnston home, 242 South Stewart, is home-made, but provides excellent cover for the food. Hung on the clothes line, it is impossible for cats to reach the feeding birds.

HOMEMADE—This is one of the bird feeders Al Zurcher, an avid bird watcher, uses to attract birds to his yard at 1218 West Second. He made it himself out of odds and ends of boards found around the house. It provides protection from the weather on the north side, while the open south side allows plenty of open air. (Democrat-Capital photos).

CAN LIDS—Al Zurcher, 1218 West Second, used old can lids to make this attractive feeder. He painted it an attractive color, to make a pleasing addition to items in his yard. The birds like it too.

UNUSUAL—Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens, 2005 East Broadway, chose this unique method of attracting birds to their back yard this winter. They used an old cedar tree, cut off the limbs then set the tree in the yard. Limbs are used as holders for ears of corn. Grains on the ground are not wasted—they are readily picked up by hungry birds.

The Little Booster to Mars

By JERRY SHEEHAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CLEVELAND, Ohio—(NEA)—A rocket engine without a single moving part and less power than a model electric train one day may send us zooming through outer space at 62 million miles per hour or faster.

Such an engine is being tested at Lewis Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Cleveland, Ohio.

Scientists there envision a larger model capable of propelling men to Mars with about the force —"thrust"—of a woman pushing a baby carriage.

This eventually could destroy the present space age image of powerful rockets continuously exhaling titanic clouds of fire and smoke.

Scientists make the engine work by electrically bombarding particles of vaporized mercury. Goaded by high voltage electrical blasts, these electrified particles (ions) of mercury shoot out the tail of the engine at speeds up to 300,000 m.p.h. Electron guns keep the ions charging out into space and prevent them from turning back into the engine.

If the engine were mounted in a rocket, the rearward race of the ions would exert a tiny forward thrust on the ship. And in gravity-free space, the slightest tap will send an object moving ahead, conceivably forever unless there is a countertap, reports William R. Mickelsen, a scientist working on this project.

Also, because acceleration in space is constant, the silent, unseen, steady thrust of billions of ions could build up to tremendous speeds, theoretically almost to the speed of light, about 186,300 miles per second.

Here's how Mikelsen describes a theoretical electric rocket flight to Mars:

Eight men board a rocket weighing 175 tons. Its engine draws electric power from a small nuclear reactor. The craft either is lifted by a huge conventional rocket into orbit around the earth or it is assembled piecemeal in space.

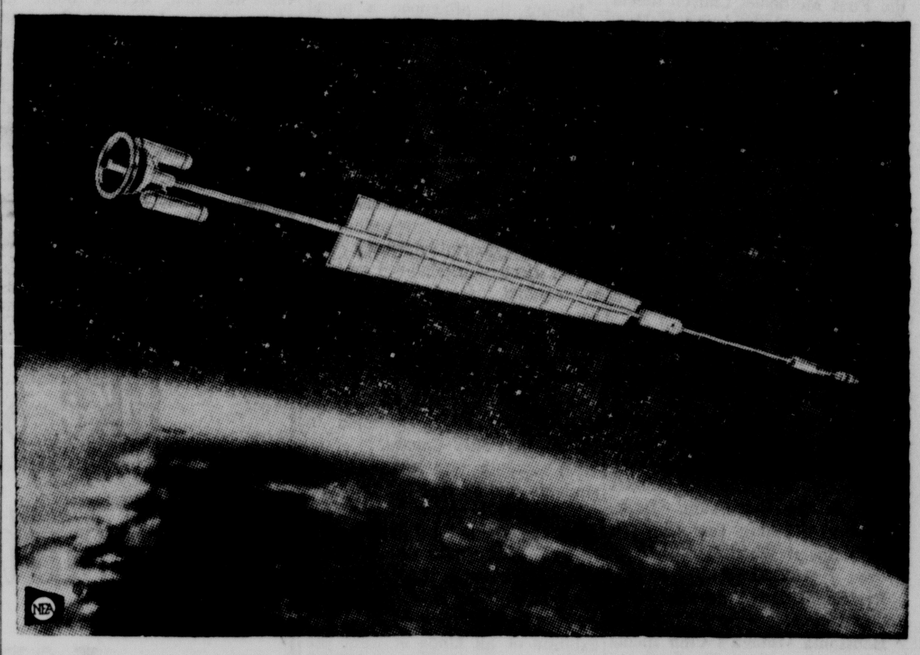
To free the craft from the earth's gravity, the crew starts up the electric engine. Nothing seems to happen. The 35 pounds of thrust are hardly noticed. Days and weeks pass.

Eventually, the rocket's speed increases and its orbit widens. Each swing around the globes carries it farther away. After 70 days, the space craft coasts at 70,000 m.p.h. away from the earth's gravitational pull and into a vast orbit intended to intersect Mars, 35 million miles away from Earth.

To return home, the craft reverses the procedure. The round trip could take as little as 500 days—about half the time a conventional "fire" rocket would need for the trip.

These electric engines operate at 80 per cent efficiency under research tests compared to the 30 per cent efficiency of passenger cars. Since there are no moving parts in the engine proper, emergency repairs in outer space would be simplified.

Mickelsen foresees unmanned space flight for the electric rocket in about two years.



ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of a rocket, with an electric engine, getting a little space push.

Dream House of Our Elders

By JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— You may soon be able to build your dream house after you retire for as little as $9,000 plus the cost of a lot.

Architect Robert B. Waring of the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. has designed a six-room compact home especially for people over 60. The use of inexpensive plywood which reduces labor costs makes the low price tag possible.

Called Freedom House, because it eliminates much of the cost of building a new home, the 1,084 sq. ft. structure was displayed for the first time at the White House Conference on Aging last month. The blueprints may soon be released to builders for nationwide construction.

Co-sponsors of the Washington display are the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., the National Retired Teachers Assn. of Retired Persons. But credit for conceiving the novel structure in the first place goes to Mary Cleverly, public housing administration commissioner for elderly housing.

Mrs. Cleverly got the idea when she saw pictures of a similar house advertised as the ideal vacation home. To her the structure looked like the solution to housing problems of the aged as well.

Statistics show that the "over 60" population totals about 23 million and will increase to 29 million by 1970. At least 18 million of these people are in low or middle income groups.

Most of these people have already raised families and would like to move into smaller, low upkeep homes. Yet most of the housing for retired people falls into one of three categories which often are unattractive to elderly, middle class, house hunters.

Luxury apartments for the wealthy, public housing for the indigent and private housing developments, often designed for disabled persons, generally are the only choices the elderly house hunters have.

Many elderly people, still in good health, resent the idea of living in homes built for the handicapped. Others dislike private housing developments because they feel that they are being segregated.

At a special housing conference here last year, Mrs. Cleverley suggested converting the vacation homes into low cost retirement dwellings that elderly people could build on lots of their own choosing. The result was architect Waring's plans and the White House Conference display model.

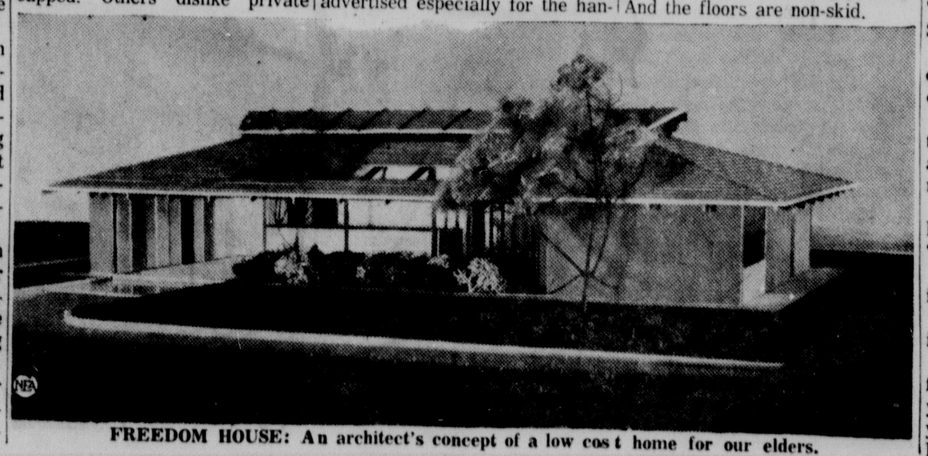
Freedom House has two bedrooms, a dining room, living room, kitchen and bath. Enclosed by its two wings are a courtyard and patio. A garage and workroom combination which can also serve as storage space, is attached to the house.

Although Freedom House is not advertised especially for the handicapped, it does contain conveniences to make life easier for healthy and disabled persons alike.

For instance, electrical outlets are 18 inches from the floor to eliminate stooping. Master light switches are located near both entrances and in the master bedroom, making movement in the dark unnecessary.

A seat near the tub makes bathroom dressing more convenient. Grab-bars offer protection against falls when getting in or out of the tub.

Low counters, sink and stove make it possible for the housewife to sit while doing her work. All but a few kitchen cabinets can be reached from a sitting position. And the floors are non-skid.



FREEDOM HOUSE: An architect's concept of a low cost home for our elders.

Here's the Answer

BUFFALO, N. Y. —(AP)— A local electronics company is turning out a handy little gadget that warns drivers as they approach radar traps.

Radatron Inc. of nearby North Tonawanda calls it "The Radar Sentry."

It's about the size of two packs of cigarettes back-to-back and costs around $40.

Powered by self-contained batteries, the gadget starts buzzing about a quarter of a mile from radar speed-tracking equipment.

Radatron General Manager William L. Waytena claims it is "completely legal," adding:

"It's certainly as legal as radar is for the police."

But police take a sour view of it.

"I think a jury might be influenced in an accident case if you had one of these devices in your car," suggested one traffic lieutenant darkly.

Angel With Two Problems

Annie Farge is the star of Angel . . . petite, friendly, pretty and her show are doing well here, there are two problems.

ANNIE: Crew stopped laughing.

First, she was a dramatic actress in France as well as comedienne . . . but all the public here knows is she's a small, Gallic edition of Lucille Ball. . . . "Someday, I would like to do a serious thing here."

The other problem is California, which she doesn't like. . . . "It is wonderful for my daughter, who is eight months old, because of the sun. She is growing up so healthy. But for me, no. There is no theater, no night life, no intellectual life. After work, I rush home for the last glimpse of my baby. She gives me a smile and then, bang, she's asleep. And then I am there alone, with my TV set."

Her husband is working in Europe . . . he's Dirk Sanders and she calls him "a Dutch Parisian" . . . he's a well-known dancer, choreographer and actor in Europe . . . but he would have to start from scratch here and he's not much interested in starting from scratch.

"The trouble with this business is the separations. And there's nothing we can do about it. It is like a trap, or like that Chaplin picture, 'Modern Times.' You put your foot in the machine and then you are in the machine always. But let us not talk about it any more, or I will cry."

Annie's English, the source of much of the humor of Angel, is getting better rapidly. . . . "I realized I knew English when the crew stopped laughing at me. They would laugh when I would fluff a line and say something bad in French—'Heck,' or something like that. Then one day I fluffed a line and I said something bad in English—'Heck,' or something like that. They didn't laugh at that."

Japanese No Longer Favor The Teahouse

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

TOKYO (AP)—The Teahouse of the August Moon is old stuff nowadays. The coffee house has taken over.

The Japanese have taken to the coffee house with a passion. There are more than 7,000 in Tokyo alone, and more open every week.

The coffee house here bears little resemblance to the American variety. You'll find no beards, bards nor beatniks. The Japanese coffee shop might be described as a combination drug store and saloon, with elements of the cabaret and Coney Island.

They are strictly a postwar phenomenon, providing a place for young couples to date. The American style of dating was not practiced in Japan before the war. The coffee houses are—well, you just can't understand them without seeing them. Even then, you may not be sure.

First stop is the Fujiya Music Salon, a tastefully decorated place. As is the custom in the coffee places, you buy a ticket at the door for your refreshment —tea, coffee, fruit drinks, beer, sundaes, etc., at around 150 yen (42 cents) apiece.

You take a seat on one of the tables, and the waitress takes your ticket and brings the order. You sip and listen to a combo of six sleepy-eyed musicians playing as gamin-like . . . although she in a way that must be described progressive jazz that would be more than acceptable on the Sunset Strip.

Next comes the Tennessee. You take a table in the balcony of the rococo place, sitting alongside bobbysoxers just out of school. All of a sudden the bandstand erupts with a rock 'n' roll "I'm Going to Stop Shoppin' Around," complete with honking saxes and thumping guitars.

The din becomes too great, and you walk to the Yie-Lai-Shian, a tastefully decorated Chinese palace. At the far end is a platform where a 10-piece chamber-music group is playing "Liebestraum." The atmosphere is hushed, and couples whisper over their coffee cups.

Dental a nd TB Testing

Two Health Meetings Held At Courthouse Thursday

Two meetings were held simultaneously Thursday morning at the Pettis County Court House at which time a Dental Workshop and a program on TB skin testing were featured.

One meeting was of the Pettis County School Board Members from 9:45 a.m. to noon, in the assembly room on the first floor.

The other was held in the County Court Room on the second floor, and was for the members of the Pettis County Teachers Association. This, also, started at 9 a.m. and continued until 3:30 p.m. At noon the teachers went in a group, to the Bothwell Hotel, for lunch. Mrs. Robert Rissler, president of the association introduced John Owen, superintendent of Benton County Schools, who gave the invocation.

The meeting of the Pettis School Board was presided over by Mrs. C. F. Scotten, with Mrs. Betty Blackwell, secretary to Dr. C. F. Scotten, superintendent of the Pettis County Schools, assisting.

Mrs. Robert Rissler, teacher of High Point School, explained the purpose of the dental workshop.

Mrs. W. P. Tucker, teacher of Oak Grove School talked on "Dramatizing the Procedure of Developing the Dental Health Health Guide by A Class Pupils."

Mrs. Gladys Leiter's first and second grade pupils presented "Ten Little Baby Teeth."

Two local dentists appeared on the program and gave important information on their profession and how it closely ties in with the program which the Pettis County schools are putting on. Dr. J. Briggs Rice, talked on "The Role of the Dentist In Implementing the Dental Health Education Guide" and Dr. O. J. Durnell, spoke on the subject: "Procedure and Observations to Be Made In a Dental Inspection."

The second part of the program was on the "Plans, Procedure and Participation in Skin Testing Program in Pettis County Schools

Maurice Hogan, chairman of the program, introduced Mrs. Bettye Murrell and Mrs. Gertrude Berlin, who explained it to the school board members. The Rev. Harry Purviance, publicity chairman, was also introduced.

Dr. A. J. Campbell then demonstrated the painless manner in which these skin tests would be given to Pettis County School Children and adults in the school, to see who might be a tuberculin reactor and needed chest x-rays.

C. A. Repp, Cooper County Superintendent of Schools and John Owen, Benton County Superintendent, led a question and answer period relating to school problems.

Mrs. Robert Rissler, president presided at the Pettis County Teachers Association meeting.

The meeting was a Dental Workshop devoted to the care of the teeth, functions of the teeth and phases of dental hygiene from kindergarten age through the 12th grade.

Every teacher in the county had a part in the discussion of the panel which covered the Dental Health Guide from the State completely.

Mrs. Catherine Rigen was chairman for Chapter I, and gave the important objectives. Mrs. Robert Rissler was chairman of Chapter II, which brought out basic facts concerning structures and function of the teeth and how dental diseases can be prevented and controlled. Mrs. Elaine Griffith, chairman was on Dental Health Education.

During the afternoon a panel composed of Ray Evans, State Department; D. O. J. Durnell; Mrs. Eva Moen, public health educator from the State Department; Miss Jane Younger, librarian, Boonslick Library, Mrs. Robert Rissler, president of the association; John Owen, County Superintendent of Benton County, and Dr. C. F. Scotten, superintendent of Pettis County Schools.

The discussion centered on how to acquaint parents with dental education.

Missouri is the only state that has a Dental Health Guide.

Mrs. Gertrude Berlin, then gave a talk on the tuberculosis skin testing program to be held in March in Pettis County.

All seventh and eighth grade students had been given the dental examination, following the study devoted to the Dental Health Guide, and all turned in very good examination papers.

Along with the program was an excellent display of posters and exhibits of all kinds of what the Pettis County Schools had done.

Eugene Jemison

Folk Singer to Perform At Sorosis Meet Monday

Eugene Jemison, talented and versatile artist, who is a painter, folksinger and printmaker, will appear on the Sorosis program Monday afternoon. On a tour, under the auspices of the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges, he will be on programs at several outstanding clubs, cultural organizations, colleges and universities in various sections of the country.

Mr. Jemison received his Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from Washburn University, and the Master of Fine Arts degree from the Kansas City Art Institute, were he is a member of the faculty. He also studied at the Art Student's league, Columbia University, and Rambusch Stained Glass Studios in New York, the Insituto Politcnico Nacional in Mexico City, and the New School for Social Research.

Studies in the ballad, music, voice and guitar were done by Mr. Jemison at Washburn University, the Conservatory of Music in Kansas City, and with Mr. John Jacob Niles at the University of Kansas City. Folk music studies were done at Columbia University under Professor Willard Rhodes. Mr. Jemison as appeared at numerous colleges and universities and for various cultural organizations. He is listed in a recently published book, "Folksingers and Folksongs in America."

As a capable mural painter and excellent printmaker, Mr. Jemison has held numerous one-man exhibitions of his work, and has contributed to galleries throughout the country. He has done outstanding work in the development of new painting materials by employing such contemporary media as plastics and vinylite.

In his development as an artist, Mr. Jemison has distinguished himself as a painter and printmaker of folk themes. Finding his inspiration in folklore, folk songs and folk poetry, he has attempted to synthesize this cultural expression and translate it into visual forms. As an accomplished singer of folk songs and a recognized scholar in the field of folklore and folk music, Mr. Jemison is well qualified to present his own ideas on the inter-relationship of the folk arts and the other fine arts.

"Many people can do more than one thing well," Mr. Jemison says, "but our age of specialization does not, in the majority of instances, encourage multi - aptitude individuals. No one today would recommend anti-specialization, but we may well recommend a broader concept of specialization.

"It is difficult to separate art and music—or almost any field, for that matter—from the tangle of related subjects. The time has come to reconsider the boundaries of specialization, not at the expense of specialization but rather by working on the borders of each subject and finding out where it touches, penetrates, or supplements another.

"In a sense," Mr. Jemison continues, "this is a suggestion to invite collaboration between artist and musician and many other specialists. A work of art classical, primitive or folk—is a small model of organization and construction put together with a passion and concern for truth. It is the duty of the artist to insist on the purposeful ordering of art and its integrating power.

"Materials basic to our society, such as folklore, myth, folk song, painting and printmaking, help furnish the integrating power which permits one to think and to act in terms of a human agent through the arts.

"The purpose of education," Mr. Jemison concludes, "should be the development of the whole human being. No part of it should be advanced at the expense of others. The arts in their varied forms are some of the many means at our disposal for heightening, deepening and refining the senses of sight and hearing, and through them our whole inner wealth of feeling, experience, and memories of picture and song."

For his program here in Sedalia, Mr. Jemison will present a concert of American and English folk songs and ballads with guitar and banjo accompaniment with commentary.

National Guard in Cold War

This month as the National Guard observes its annual "Muster Day" throughout the nation, it also marks the 15th anniversary of the reorganization of its units following World War II. Aside from the obvious significance of the occasion, it serves to remind us—much to our discomfort—that the Cold War has been with us for a long time.

And as a reminder that the Cold War goes on we note that the National Guard in some States has started to wage war on Communism by conducting its own National Defense Strategy Seminars. Patterned on similar "orientation" courses conducted by the National War College in Washington, these Seminars are designed to educate citizens on the specific nature and menace of Communism in a straightforward, unemotional manner.

It is not at all surprising that the Guard should be taking Communism as a part of its special province. Since early Colonial days, Guardsmen—or Minutemen as they were once called—have been motivated by a conviction that citizenship demands more than the payment of taxes and obedience to the law. In short, they have believed that a good citizen must put into his country at least as much as he has taken out of it.

Reviewing the 15 years of the Cold War, we can see that the National Defense Strategy concept is but one example of this philosophy. In the whole area of military and economic Cold War deterrence the National Guard stands at the forefront.

Take, for example, its role in National Defense. On its reorganization early in 1946, the Guard was little more than a paper organization. It not only had to recruit most of its members, but also had to rebuild most of the battle-worn equipment the Army turned over to it. Adding to this uphill effort was the fact that modern warfare requires the Guard to be closer to battlefield readiness than ever before—more ready than the active services of the 1930s. Today these challenges have been met and the Army and Air National Guard have become so integrated with the active establishment that they not only have been assigned specific missions in our nation's war plans but are performing essential defense roles in peacetime.

A less glamorous—but no less important—aspect of national defense is our ability to recover quickly and effectively from a nuclear attack. In recognition of this, National Guard leaders have been advocating a recovery mission for their units, pointing out that the Guard's geographic dispersion, its 472,000-man strength, its modern equipment, and its variety of units—ranging from air transport to medical—make it ideally suited for such purposes.

Lastly, the National Guard's contribution to our economic strength cannot be overlooked. While its combat versatility makes it an important part of our defense structure, its annual appropriation of only 1.5 per cent of our total military budget makes it, dollar for dollar, one of the wisest investments in the nation today.

In recognition of its invaluable service to State and Nation, we salute the National Guard on the occasion of its observance of "Operation Muster 1961," February 18-26.

NEW FRONTIERS in Religion

2. What Is Man?

By J. CARTER SWAIM
Executive Director of the Department of the English Bible, National Council of Churches

One of Christianity's New Frontiers is posed by the receding frontiers of the universe. An ancient story, related in I Esdras, describes the intoxication wrought by wine; it "makes every one talk in millions." Scientists now are not limited by mere millions. Whereas it used to be thought that life on earth was of comparatively recent origin, paleontologists now assure us that the earth, which has existed for four or five billion years has, with its hospitable environment been host to living creatures of one kind or another for more than one billion years.

Dr. Swaim

Whereas it was once assumed that our planet was the center of things, astronomers now talk of galaxies and metagalaxies. Whereas it was formerly assumed that our earth alone is habitable, it is now believed that conditions favorable to life are found on at least ten billion other panets. Whereas it was once assumed that man was important, we are now told that if he should blow himself and his planet to ashes, it would be only a minor disturbance, leaving the remainder of the universe "untouched and unconcerned."

In such impersonal vastness, it is easy to imagine that the whole race of many has no importance. On the New Frontier, what significance could possibly attach to an individual human being? Although horizons have widened, it is still a very old question, and one that has never been better put than in Psalm 8:3f:

"When I look at thy heavens . . The moon and the stars which thou hast established;

What is man that thou art mindful of him?"

With his naked eye the Psalmist could see five or six thousand stars. This made him ask questions about his own importance. With a comparatively simple telescope we can see a hundred million. That does cut us down to size!

Is life merely "a trouble of ants in the gleam of a million million suns"? Is it conceivable that man has a place on any New Frontier?

Of course, it is man who asks the question. It is man who invented the telescopes which found out those vast distances. It is man who, by measuring variations in the spectrum, can tell how many millions of years it took the starlight we see tonight to reach our planet. Computers can never rob man of this distinction. It requires a man to devise and instruct a computer.

Put a star at the small end of a telescope and nothing happens. Put a man there and the whole universe is laid under scrutiny. In the early years of modern astronomy, someone devised the phrase "astronomical intimidation"—but it need no longer frighten. When one pointed out how small man is, astronomically speaking, another replied, "Astronomicaly speaking, man is the astronomer!"

An executive who supervised the work of 2,000 people pointed out that a big job is just a lot of little jobs. If the little jobs are done, the big job takes care of itself. If, on the other hand, the little jobs are slighted, the big one may collapse. No matter how small a detail man may be, it would not be an orderly universe if his part in it were meaningless.

Man is not lost on the New Frontiers! He invents new machines to enable him to pierce further into space. His organizing brain enables him continually to set back the limits of the unknown. According to the New Testament, every man is a brother for whom Christ thought it worthwhile to die. That makes us "heirs of God and fellow-heirs with Christ" (Romans 8:17). New Frontiers do not dwarf man. It is man the Frontiersman who finds out there are New Frontiers!

Revamps Policy Toward Africa

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It isn't going to be shouted from the housetops, but the Kennedy administration has decided to pull a complete reversal of the Eisenhower administration in regard to Africa.

This was why Ted Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, made a little noticed speech at the Overseas Press Club in New York suggesting that the United States should reconsider its position toward Patrice Lumumba as premier of the Congo. Ted Kennedy had come back from a tour of Africa, would not have made that statement without consulting his brother.

Lumumba is now dead. But to understand the significance of the new Kennedy policy you have to go back to what happened in Africa under Eisenhower.

Best illustration took place after the independence of Guinea from France in 1959. The French were so irked at Guinea's vote for independence that they yanked out all the telephones, removed all desks from government offices, transferred autos, trucks, and everything else that was removable. The new republic was left helpless. So President Sekou Toure appealed to President Tubman of the much older African republic of Liberia to intercede with the United States for aid.

President Tubman did so. He urged that American aid be sent to Guinea immediately.

The Eisenhower administration did not act. The request lay on a State Department desk for about two months. It was not ignored. It was carefuily considered. But Eisenhower decided that to help newly independent Guinea would offend President De Gaulle.

Finally the Guineans got tired of waiting, requested aid from Russia. Within five days a plane arrived from Moscow loaded with Communist technicians. Three hundred Communist technicians are in Guinea today and it has virtually become a Russian satellite.

Sekou Toure's Mistress

Getting along with these new African republics is not easy. Later Eisenhower, waking up to what was happening in Guinea, invited President Toure to Washington for a formal state dinner, Oct. 29, 1959, at the White House. President Toure brought both his wife and his Mulatto mistress, wanted both invited to dinner at the White House. U.S. protocol officers objected on the ground that the mistress had no official standing. She was included in the musicale after dinner, but not at the dinner.

At this point President Toure refused to go to dinner. Either his mistress must be included or he would not dine with President Eisenhower, he decreed.

"If you can give the lady an official position, she can be invited," astute Ambassador Wiley Buchanan finally advised.

So on the spur of the moment President Toure made his mistress secretary of state. She accompanied him and his wife to the White House.

Cue From British

Last fall when the United Nations voted for or against colonialism in Africa and Asia, the State Department had wanted to line up against colonialism. So did the American delegation to the UN in New York. Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was especially vigorous on this point. They knew we would get a black eye throughout the world unless we voted for the independence which we ourselves had battled to bring to the 13 colonies in 1776.

But Prime Minister Macmillan of England made a personal appeal to President Eisenhower and Ike then gave instructions to the American delegates at the UN to abstain. Our position was a great victory for Russia.

"Nile, You Can't Flow!"

President Kennedy has now reversed this. He has laid down a policy similar to his 1957 Senate speech advocating independence for Algeria which made the French so mad.

The Kennedy decision is that despite our ties with NATO, we can't worry about the Belgians, the Portuguese, the South Africans, and others bucking the political tide of independence.

They are considered certain to lose and we want to ride with the winners.

"Ike and John Foster Dulles," remarked one Kennedy friend, "stood at the mouth of the Nile and said 'you can't flow.' But the tide rolled them over anyway. Kennedy has figured that since the tide is going to flow anyway you might as well ride with it, and try to channel it, not resist it."

This is why former Gov. "Soapy" Williams of Michigan, now assistant secretary of state, is studiously avoiding the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia on his present African trip. These white governments of African countries have been chalked up privately as the John Foster Dulles of Africa, bucking a black tide which is sure to engulf the continent.

Martyr-Scoundrel

Shortly before he was killed, Patrice Lumumba was the subject of important, confidential debate inside the Kennedy administration.

Secretary of State Rusk, Assistant Secretary Williams and President Kennedy all seriously considered the idea of urging the United Nations to reinstate the man with the greatest popular following, who they thought might be able to bring peace to the Congo. But Ambassador Clare Timberlake, just returned from the Congo, urged the opposite course. He reported that Lumumba was an out-and-out Soviet stooge who couldn't be trusted around the corner.

Lumumba had been jailed for theft, kept a retinue of women, threw bawdy parties at local night clubs when he was supposed to be governing the new Congolese nation. He was one of the most treacherous scoundrels to hold office in modern times. Yet because he was killed he will now be revered throughout Africa as a hero and martyr.

The Art of Living

O, there's a sparkle in her eyes,
A bubbling sort is she,
And each brief time with her I prize
For what she does for me,
Her happiness just radiates
As words come tumbling out,
And I am sure no one she hates
Nor says harsh things about,
For lo, so many glorious things
She has upon her mind
How could she say a word that stings
Or do a thing unkind,
She's very busy every day
In being happy, so,
There doesn't seem to be a way
Unpleasant things could grow,
She has a family she adores,
Nobody needs to ask,
She gaily does her household chores
That seem to be no task,
Her husband and her children know
A home that's full of joy,
She kindles love that seems to glow
And nothing can destroy,
For everything they seem to share,
Traditions they make fun,
And every day is like a prayer,
I'm sure, when it is done;
So genuine is she, so sweet,
Her husband must feel pride
To know his standards she will meet
As they go side by side,
And her young children, too, are proud,
They feel there is no other
Who stands out so much with their crowd
As their own darling mother,
For love is her most precious gift,
So generously she gives it,
Somehow I always get a lift
To see life as she lives it.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICE

JAMES E. POLLARD

What is a Newspaper?

There are times when what looks like a newspaper may not qualify as such for legal purposes. In many places there are what are known as "shoppers" or "throwaways." They contain more or less news, they serve a purpose, but their primary purpose is advertising.

Such publications are useful and many of them have been in existence for years. Some of them make a fine appearance. But it is significant that they cannot qualify for second class entry under the postal law. This is because they do not come within the definition of a bona fide newspaper under the regulations.

Then again there are special interest newspapers which, within their limits, also serve useful purposes. These may be fraternal or religious in nature or may have to do with a specific trade, business, industry or profession.

But in the very great majority of cases the thousands of state laws governing public notices, or legal advertising, specify the use of bona fide newspapers of paid general circulation in the community for such purposes. This is because such newspapers usually give maximum coverage, circulate throughout the community, have as their main purpose the publication of editorial and news matter. Their paid circulation are undeniable proof of their merit, their influence and their being wanted in the community.

What They Say in Letters to Editor

Louis S. Payton (410 South Grand) — An Open Letter To Water Users In Sedalia — For those of you who do not know me personally, I am Louis Payton, District Public Health Engineer for the Division of Health until my retirement last year. In the capacity of Public Health Engineer, one of my principal duties had to do with public water supplies, such as reviewing plans and making inspections of new construction, as well as water plant operation, to determine if they were meeting the minimum standards of the Division of Health of Missouri as to safety and adequack of the supply.

Shortly after starting to work for the Division of Health in 1942, I met Mr. Major Hagar, who at that time was superintendent of the water department at Boonville. In my opinion, he was doing an outstanding job at Boonville and the plant iself has often been described as the most carefully operated water plant in Missouri. I know that he is nationally known in the waterworks field and has held executive positions in state and national organizations.

In my opinion, Sedalia was very fortunate that Mr. Hagar was available at the time the superintendency for the Sedalia Water Department was open. In my opinion, he is doing an outstanding job here, and as a resident of Sedalia, it disturbs me a great deal that a few well meaning citizens are trying to get him dismissed.

I am concerned also over the prospect of having the Water Board, as well as the water department employees dismissed under these conditions. In my opinion, such a move would not only result in inefficiency of the water system, but would probably also jeopardize the bonds which the city issued to buy the system. It also might result in the loss of approval by the Division of Health.

The above is my own opinion and was not solicited by anyone, including members of the Water Board or water plant employees. It is simply my attempt to contribute to the health and welfare of teh people of Sedalia.

Learning to Listen

By Cyrene Dear
(DP&R Special Service)

WASHINGTON — About 1,000 tiny tots, up to age seven, sat on the floor of a Washington hotel listening to an honest to goodness National Symphony Concert.

Most hardy parents sat with them but a few lucky grandmothers found chairs, too.

The tiny tots wandered among the instruments before and after the concert, beating the big kettle drums, tenderly strumming the strings of the harp, thumping the base violin, tapping the triangles, and gently hitting the xylophone.

Dr. Howard Mitchell, conductor of the National Symphony is a master at handling children as well as music.

He affectionately but sternly says to the tiny tots: "You might as well learn while you are very young that when you listen to music you must be very quiet, the orchestra cannot play if you make more noise than we do. That is something that some grown ups never learn."

These Tiny Tot concerts have become so popular that they are repeated for a second group after the first leaves the hall.

The parents have as much fun as the children, even if they too have to sit on the floor while the children are provided with a wonderful introduction to great music and see at close range the instruments which produce it.

The program lasted only one hour.

The conductor introduced the orchestra in its four parts. First, the percussion section, the loudest and therefore the smallest, with its drums, cymbals, and other noise makers.

Second, the brass, not quite so loud, therefore a little more numerous, with its trumpets, trombones, beautiful French horns and great big tuba.

Third, the softer wood winds, with flutes, piccolo, oboe, soft English horn.

Finally, the strings, with the violins, violas, cellos and double base violins. The harp, the most beautiful of all the instruments stands alone in the orchestra and its solo parts are always clear and beautiful.

As each section was introduced a simple melody was played to identify the section and to see how it fitted into a complete orchestral composition.

The children particularly liked the delicate Woody Scherzo played by the wood winds which sounded like something from a Walt Disney movie with the squirrels twittering and the birds chattering and singing.

Some of the tiny tots danced while others conducted as the orchestra played "The Girl I Left Behind Me" which sounded like an Irish jig; the "Alligator and the Coon" from the Louisiana Story; the "Dance of the Comedians" from the Bartered Bride and the Russian Sailor Dance.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The city council had a short, snappy business meeting because of the 10 above zero weather. The wind whistled through the crevvices in the doors and windows of the city hall building so Mayor Bagby and five councilmen present, Bahner, Smasal, Barman, Neighbors and Martin transacted the business without delay.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Lee Redmond, a student at St. Patrick's Parochial school, suffered a fracture of his left leg below the hip while playing catcher's position in a ball game during the noon hour. A billboard used as a backstop topped over on him when it was weakened by a gust of wind. The boy was taken in an ambulance to the hospital for X-ray examination.

Investment Counselors Woo Accounts of Middle Class

By FAY HENLE

A country doctor in West Virginia, a college professor in Illinois and a shoe salesman in Tennessee have at least three things in common. They live in towns where the population is under 2,500; each has managed to accumulate somewhere between $15,000 and $25,000 that he can afford to invest; each uses an investment counselor.

What is unusual about this? It is a fairly recent phenomenon in the world of high finance that an investment counselor will give "middle-class" money a tumble.

What is an investment counselor? How do they define "middle-class" money? Why their courtship now of the small investor?

An investment counselor once handled only the money of the very rich. These professional students of the securities markets render for a fee the service of impartially giving clients advice on how to invest their funds. In contrast to the broker, the recognized investment counselor does not make money when you buy or sell. He merely offers advice based on studies he has made. For you he selects those situations he judges will suit your own personal and peculiar needs.

These wise men of finance are well aware that "middle-class" money is growing.

Study figures from the Internal Revenue Service and you will learn why. The IRS reports more fortunes are being made now than ever before. Since the end of World War II, the number of families earning $10,000 a year has more than tripled. In the past 20 years the number of families earning at least $15,000 a year has increased almost five times.

A chance remark about counseling for the middle class by Howard F. Wortham, president of Trainor, Wortham & Co., got into print and evoked 1,500 queries almost overnight that made this 37-year-old investment counseling firm aware of the vast numbers of people with money to invest. Thus, the firm started its Special Supervisory Accounts which last year showed a 9 per cent gain, while a top common stock index declined 3 per cent.

Scores of other investment counselors are gearing today to handle the smaller account.

Actually there are seven sources of investment advice for you to tap: well - meaning friends, printed services, lawyers, brokers, banks and trust companies, mutual funds and investment counselors. Which is for you?

Friends mean well, but do they really know? You are taking a wild gamble here.

Printed services are fine, but do you know enough to interpret these for your own use and needs?

Lawyers are fine — but would you ask yours to remove junior's tonsils?

A good broker can make you a pile but you must have the time to work with him and remain pretty close geographically.

Banks and trust companies are not yet sufficiently aware of the small investor. If you succeed in getting them interested, you will find them most conservative. There is nothing wrong with this.

Mutual funds are designed to serve the masses; they will not tailor an investment program just for you.

For the person engaged in a profession, for the traveler, for the resident of a small community, an investment counseling fee could pay off well.

SNOOPING IN THE OVEN to see what was cooking for supper the young husband eyed the baked potatoes in the ice cube tray curiously.

"Why," he asked his bride, "are you baking the potatoes in the ice cube tray?"

"Because," replied his wife, 'I didn't have a smaller pan clean and I didn't want to get any of my larger pans dirty."

The young husband laughed at what a new bride could think of to do while getting meals, but he had to admit she had a point when she used the ice cube tray—the potatoes fit in it perfectly.

CAPE GIRARDEAU MISSOURIAN: An Anniversary.—Now that it is possible to circle the globe in a few hours, instead of many days, the feat of Nellie Bly, who completed such a journey 70 years ago, is recalled with interest.

Sponsored by the long-defunct New York World, the 23-year-old woman went around the world in 72 days, 6 hours and 11 minutes. Her purpose was to beat the time of a fictional character, Phineas Fogg, the hero of Jules Verne's story, "Around the World in 80 Days."

Nellie Bly, whose real name was Elizabeth Cochrane, found herself stranded in New York City, without funds. She applied to Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the World, for a job, outlining many possible stunts to attract circulation for his newspaper.

She went up in a balloon, down in a diving bell, posed as a beggar and a lunatic, a shop girl and a Salvation Army worker. But her most famous stunt, and one which brought her acclaim, was the trip around the world.

It was said she had done much to emancipate women. The remainder of her career was anti-climatic. She went to a rival newspaper, married a rich man and wrecked his business after he died. She was given a short obituary on the inside page of her own newspaper when she died at 56.

By modern standards of travel Nellie was a piker. But she was going places 70 years ago.

'Hands Off the Choir'

"Thou shalt not lay hands on the choir," is the manifesto proclaimed by the parents of the boys belonging to the world famous choir of St. Thomas Lutheran Church in Leipsig, East Germany, when the communists interfere with the choir's religious traditions.

This choir of 80 members dates back to the year 1212. The present director Prof. Kurt Thomas, said he would have to leave the choir if the Communists did not stop their interference. The Soviet officials were requiring the choir to discontinue grace before meals and keeping the boys away from religious services in the boarding choir school.

The parents of the boys threatened to withdraw their children if the Communists did not stop attempting to control the school.

As a light shining in the darkness, every once in a while a ray of hope peers through the regimented Soviet system. The choir continues and the young voices blend in the traditional tunes that have been heard in St. Thomas's Church since the thirteenth century.

Bob Pushing Vitamin Pills While On Set

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

TOKYO (AP)—Don't ask why Robert Cummings would be in a Chinese restaurant in the Japanese capital talking about an American TV show. Don't ask; just listen.

Fact is, when Cummings starts talking, you're bound to listen. He speaks with the zeal of an evangelist, which he is.

One of his crusades is bringing joys of food supplements to the unenlightened. He is working here on "My Geisha," and he has most of the company hooked on his pills, which he despenses in gross lots.

In between the shark fin soup and fried rice, he chomped on handsful of protein tablets and wheat germ pills and philosophized.

"Imaging," he said. "That's the way you can accomplish anything in life. Once you image what you want—and if it is good for you and other people—all you have to do is start acting as if you already have it. And before long, you will!"

He illustrated with his career. For five years he imaged himself as a British actor and won his start in the theater and films. He now images himself young, and at 50 he looks like a collegiate.

His latest imaging has accomplished the virtually impossible feat of a third bigtime TV series. He did "My Hero," which is still making the re-run rounds in the United States and elsewhere. More importantly, he had a five-year run with "The Bob Cummings Show." Next season, CBS will offer an entirely different series, oddly named "The Bob Cummings Show."

How come? Because Bob imaged it.

"It happened a year ago," he recounted. "One morning it came to me, the kind of a show I wanted to do."

He sent for the boss of a giant agency, who bought the idea immediately. The writers' strike delayed the project for months. But as soon as the pilot film was made, it was snapped up. The story has Bob as a playboy with a home at an airport in Palm Desert, Calif. He's sort of a jet age Paladin, taking on jobs to help out people when he runs out of money.

As with his previous series, Bob will star in, direct, produce and image the new show.

Elizabeth Taylor tells Laurence Harvey that she is aware that his wife is returning to town in a scene from "Butterfield 8," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of John O'Hara's dynamic novel. Eddie Fisher also stars in the ace cast, with Dina Merrill portraying Harvey's neglected wife. The Pandro S. Berman production, directed by Daniel Mann, is in CinemaScope and color. Now showing at the Fox Theatre.

Marlon Brando and an exquisite new Japanse star, Miiko Taka head the all-star cast of "Sayonara," an exciting drama filmed in Technirama Technicolor. Co-feature, "The Boy and The Laughing Dog," stars Walter Brennan, Phil Harris, Brandon deWilde and Sidney Porter. Both features start today at the 50 Drive-In Theatre.

Kansan Says Price Supports Should Be Based On Corn Value

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. J. Floyd Breeding, D-Kan., said Friday feed grain price supports should be based on the comparative feed value with corn.

"There is no other fair way to do it," he said.

Breeding, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said in a statement that the theory behind the emergency feed grain program, recommended to the House Thursday by President Kennedy has won widespread approval.

The theory, he added, is that production must be reduced to a point where consumption will be in line with demand.

Probably Meant To Stay Out Of Trouble

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 15-year-old youth stood before Lt. George R. Harkness, head of the police motor car theft unit.

He was explaining to the officer about an accident he had the day before. It turned out the car was stolen.

During the questioning, the youth admitted stealing five cars last week "just for joy rides." He then admitted he had taken three other cars this week, including the one which he wrecked.

The officer then asked him where he was going when he had the accident.

"I was on the way to the juvenile court to report to my parole officer," the youth replied. "You see I'm on parole for auto theft."

The boy was turned over to juvenile court authorities.

Emilio Aguinaldo

Filipino Leader Losing Strength in His Old Age

MANILA (AP—They whispered that he carried a magic amulet, for he seemed invulnerable in battle.

The simple people kissed his hand when he entered a village. With few guns and no military training, they followed him to war for five years, twice against the proud but crumbling empire of Spain and then against the vigorous new world power, the United States. Defeat ultimately was inevitable.

But ultimate triumph came 45 years later when he marched proudly down Dewey Boulevard the day America gave the Philippines independence.

Now, at 91, Emilio Aguinaldo's strength is ebbing at last. His sight is failing. But he is still painfully writing his memoirs of the days when America went to war to free Cuba from Spain and wound up taking the Philippines.

He has much to be bitter about, but he is not. He is a friend of America although he still maintains America betrayed him, although Americans called him a bandit and cutthroat.

Once even his own people heaped abuse on him. To this day there are many who regard him with distrust.

Yet he was the undisputed leader of the revolts that Filipinos consider the most glorious period in their unhappy history, the 1896-'01 revolt against Spain and America.

Aguinaldo was an unknown small-town youth of 27 at the start of the revolution.

On Aug. 30, 1896, Aguinaldo and a friend walked unarmed into the guardhouse in his hometown and told the soldiers to surrender. It was an easy beginning, for the Spaniards were surprised and outnumbered by Aguinaldo's men outside.

Within the week Aguinaldo faced a force of 500 armed men sent out from Manila with artillery and cavalry, and routed them at a river crossing.

His victories led him in less than a year to the presidency of the revolutionary government.

Aguinaldo finally signed a pact with Spain when a stalemate was reached in early 1898 and went to Hong Kong with 400,000 pesos as a cash settlement. Some of his supporters demanded that the money be divided.

Instead he bought arms and came back after the battle of Manila Bay in May 1898 to continue the fight.

There was a memorable conference with U.S. Commodore George Dewey, aboard his flagship Olympia. Aguinaldo said Dewey promised independence in exchange for an alliance against Spain. But the hero of Manila Bay insisted he promised nothing of the sort, and the Filipino had nothing in writing to back up his claim.

All over the archipelago Filipinos rose against Spain. They had more guns this time, and the Spaniards were demoralized by the loss of their navy to Dewey's fleet at Manila Bay.

Soon Manila was all but won by Aguinaldo.

But there was no victory. American troops landed, and their generals refused to allow the Filipinos to enter the surrendered city.

Aguinaldo restrained his headstrong commanders and waited. When America annexed the Philippines, his course was clear —t fight the Americans.

Aguinaldo fought against hopeless odds with dignity. It was still there at the end, at the ionominious surrender to American Gen. Frederick Funston.

It took 70,000 American troops to crush the insurgents. By the time they succeeded in 1901, the Filipinos had absorbed a vision of ultimate indepe dence they would never lose.

Aguinaldo never abandoned the dream either, but for him the struggle practically ended with his surrender.

He was only 32 then, and had a following that could not be challenged. But he retired to his farm on the shore of Manila Bay and disappeared from public notice.

Polish 'Sound of Music' For a Tour of the Nation

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway's big one, "The Sound of Music," is being polished for national tour with special care.

"This isn't going to be just a carbon copy," says director Vincent Donehue.

Special interest centers on the venture—one of the most elaborate ever to hit the road—because the musical was the final creation of the fabulously successful team of composer Richard Rodgers and his lyricist partner, the late Oscar Hammerstein II.

Starring Florence Henderson, the touring company opens Feb. 27 in Detroit, thereafter moves on for extended stands in Toronto, Cleveland, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Dallas, St. Louis and Chicago.

The home company will continue at Broadway's Lunt-Fontaine Theater, where it has been playing to standing room only for 16 months.

Rehearsals of the road troupe have been kept well away from that triumph. Another theater, a half mile away, was used for runthroughs. Miss Henderson purposely avoided going over to see Mary Martin play the key role. She saw the show just once, soon after it opened and long before she was selected for tour.

Perhaps most important of all has been the attention lavished by the top creative echelon. Sitting in with undiminished enthusiasm, counsel and advice have been Rodgers, authors Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, coproducers Leland Hayward Hayward and Richard Halliday.

"I let Florence find her way at the beginning into the role," Donehue says of Miss Henderson. "Both she and Mary came up with surprisingly similar characteristics and details of interpretation."

Donehue is high on his new performer: "If she lived a hundred years, Florence would never find a show which uses her heart, her humor and her voice so perfectly. Her instincts are terribly right about the part."

He explains his own unflagging interest stems from a constant urge to improve.

"Since the musical opened on Broadway I have gotten some new ideas which I hope I'm going to take advantage of in this production," he says.

In scenery and costumes, the road show, financed at $325,000, is identical with the White Way version, which cost $450,000. One difference, invisible to spectators, will be in some of the metal props.

In the interests of lightening the freight load, aluminum is taking over from brass and steel.

For its star, "The Sound of Music" contains "both music that works for you and that provides challenge."

Miss Henderson, 26, blonde and petite, first hit the Broadway starlight in 1955 in the title role of "Fanny."

This demands a much wider range—there are many colors and dimensions—but it is beautifully constructed. Rodgers' music is easy for me to sing," she says.

"When there is a difficult word to say, he puts it on a note that helps you."

Miss Henderson is taking with her on the trip two items that arrived on the first day of rehearsal — from Mary Martin. One, a medal of the religious order around which part of the plot of "The Sound of Music" revolves. The other, a two-page note.

"I'll never forget the closing line," says Florence. "It was: 'Just remember — the most important thing of all is, take care of yourself.'"

matter of FACT

You can't blame a politician or anyone else for wanting a vicuna coat. Made from the hair of a South American camel, the coat would be expensive even if it were not so soft and beautifully colored. Vicunas live in small herds high in the Andes. Each animal produces only a quarter pound of fine fabric wool at a time.

GOLDEN BROWN FRIED RABBIT
George F. Kellner

2 to 3 pound young Domestic frying rabbit
½ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
½ cup sweet milk
Butter or fat

Cut rabbit into pieces for serving; break the egg into a small dish or pan and beat until the yolk is thoroughly mixed with the white of the egg, add the milk and mix thoroughly.

Mix salt and pepper with the flour in a separate pan; a pie pan will do.

Hea heavy skillet with ¼ inch fat or cooking oil or butter. Dip rabbit in the egg-milk mixture coating each piece well; next roll each piece in the seasoned flour coating well.

Brown slowly on all sides, turning often with kitchen tongs. Do not use a fork for turning as the tines will pierce the coating and the flesh releasing the juices in the meat.

"Mine can be a 'dream kitchen' too, because of Rural Electrification!" . . .

—says Mrs. Farm Housewife, 1961

"If it hadn't been for Rural Electrification we, in the country, might still be without electricity. As it is, we can have all the conveniences of city living . . . and, although we're out in the country, we too can have all the electricity we need, at a rate we can afford to pay!"

This is true in most rural communities today because of the founders of the Rural Electric Systems — the folks who brought electricity to the farms . . .
